Is This Canada's Oldest Cat?

Laying claim to the title of oldest cat in Canada is 24-year-old Mickey, perched on the shoulder of his owner, Mrs. E. M. Foxgord, 1609 Gladstone. On a basis of one cat year equalling seven human years, Mickey has reached the grand age of 168 years. Mrs. Foxgord says her pet has a healthy appetite, "eats a can of salmon and drinks plenty of water every day," is still active and "can climb all the trees in the backyard."—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

U.S. Uses Up Supplies

Vaccine Pledge Broken Doctors' Plan Thwarted

Salk Drive Halted

Victoria doctors have been forced to abandon their united effort to safeguard some 60,000 residents of the area against polio.

The mass inoculation plan is being dropped because a United States manufacturing firm failed at the last minute to keep its pledge to supply sufficient vaccine for the program.

Many city doctors had already started cancelling normal appointments in order to participate in the inoculation drive.

The plan was to begin early next month, with second shots in May and the third in November. The three shots were to be given at cost, $3, and it had been hoped that everyone between six months and 45, about 60,000, would benefit.

DEEPEST REGRET

"We wish to express the deepest degret for the disappointment which this cancellation of our plans will occasion the public," Dr. Gavin Chisholm, president of the Victoria Medical Society, said last night.

"Fortunately, it has just been announced by the public health authorities that, through government channels, enough vaccine will be available for the immediate inoculation of the most vulnerable age groups," he said.

"Before making definite arrangements the society's plans were based on the firm assurance by a manufacturer of the vaccine that unlimited supplies were available to Victoria," explained Dr. Chisholm.

"This vaccine has since been released for use elsewhere and present supplies are not available here to provide for the mass campaign."

A representative of the U.S. manufacturer involved confirmed that the promised vaccine supply had been quickly and unexpectedly used up in the current mass inoculation in the United States.

CANADIAN SUPPLY

Vaccine used by public health authorities, however, comes from a Canadian manufacturer and these supplies are still available.

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer, said all children in Grades 1 to 10 whose parents have signed consent, have had two polio shots. Third and final shot in this program will be given later in the year.

Pre-primary groups and students in Grades 11 to 13 are expected to receive their first two shots this year and the third next year.

The entire program, covering about 17,000 youngsters in Greater Victoria schools, is expected to be completed next year.

Dr. Chisholm said that "if circumstances change we should be prepared to put on the operation again."

HELPING SOCIETY

Co-operating with the medical society were the Graduate Nurses' Society, the Pharmaceutical Society, the nurses' training schools of both general hospitals, and Kinsmen clubs.

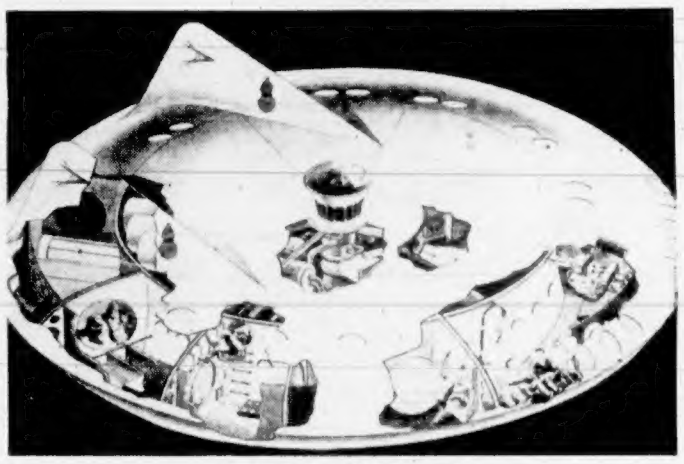
Increased supplies of Salk vaccine will probably lead to the inoculation of Victoria College and UBC students and student nurses this year, Health Minister Eric Martin said yesterday.

The minister said manufacturing laboratories in Eastern Canada now say their vaccine output is going to be higher than originally expected, making it fairly certain the B.C. program can be extended to cover additional students.

Student nurses who will be eligible for the vaccine must be in training at recognized nurses' training schools in B.C., he said.

Provincial authorities hope to have sufficient supplies to give shots to all residents of the province under the age of 40, if they want it, by 1958.

Mr. Martin said the extended program would be administered on a local level and that as supplies are received medical health officers will implement the vaccination program in their areas.



No Little Green Men

An engineer who said he doesn't believe in flying saucers, Lovell Lawrence, Jr., of Chrysler Corporation, yesterday presented this conception of a flying saucer of the future: speed, 25,000 miles an hour; diameter, 50 feet; power, atoms or high-energy gas; crew, humans, not little green men. The craft would whirl slowly to create an effect of gravity, and a trip to Mars would take nine to 12 weeks.—(AP Photofax.)

Cameron Hits Winters

'Ottawa on Housing As Bad as Russia'

OTTAWA (CP) — A charge that Works Minister Winters has been "uttering fatuous nonsense" about Canada's housing situation was coupled by Colin Cameron Tuesday to a suggestion that Ottawa has erred as badly as Moscow in handling its housing problems.

The CCF member for Nanaimo, B.C., also said a proposal by Governor James Coyne of the Bank of Canada that personal savings in chartered banks be directed into housing mortgages and other long-term investments would be "the first step toward some rational control and direction of investment in Canada."

Mr. Cameron then quoted from an unidentified United States periodical saying Russian leaders admitted errors in development plans included over - ambitious schemes threatening to freeze too much capital in too many long-term construction projects while not allocating adequate resources for solving housing problems.

"So we find that the totalitarians in the Kremlin and the latitudinarians in Ottawa achieved be same disastrous impasse, although by different routes," said Mr. Cameron.

Mr. Cameron called the federal budget "essentially stupid" as both the Progressive Conservatives and the CCF moved motions of non-confidence in the government for the budget.

Mr. Cameron ended his speech with a motion asking that old age pensions be increased to about $75 monthly instead of to $46 a month.

Strike

Chaos Looms In U.K.

LONDON (AP)—Union leaders Tuesday night ordered 2,500,000 factory workers to join in a "phased" strike aimed at paralyzing Britain's manufacturing industries by April 6.

Seventy shipyards already were idle in a walkout of 200,000 men. Taken together the two strikes could bring the British economy almost to a standstill in the worst industrial chaos since the general strike of 1926.

The 81,000-ton liner Queen Mary, scheduled to sail today for New York fell victim to the strike and won't be allowed to sail.

Meanwhile 40 key British unions yesterday ordered a wave of "hit and run" strikes beginning Saturday among the 3,000,000 workers in metal industries.

Huge Blast Kills Four

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Four men died Tuesday in a thunderous powder plant blast at Frederickson, Wash., which shook windows in downtown Tacoma, 18 miles away.

The Pierce County sheriff's office says the Columbia powder plant was the scene of the blast. It occurred in the gelatin packaging division.

UNEF Raid Nabs Opium

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United Nations Emergency Force said Tuesday it has helped break up a narcotics ring that tried to get UNEF personnel to smuggle $500,000 worth of opium from the Sinai desert to lower Egypt.

A UN announcement issued here and in Cairo said "several smugglers" were captured March 9, the day the opium was confiscated, some of them "after a dramatic night raid involving an exchange of fire."

The announcement was based on a report on the case by Sgt. W. R. Brocklebank, a member of the Royal Canadian Army Provost Corps, attached to the UNEF military police.

Dr. Adams Chuckles

Star Witness Breaks Down

LONDON (AP)—Dr. John Bodkin Adams' lawyer drove a star prosecution witness sobbing from Old Bailey Court Tuesday, and the chubby physician chuckled.

Dr. Adams also winked at someone in the rows of fashionably dressed women attending his murder trial as defence counsel Geofrey Lawrence's cross - examination upset nurse Helen Stronach.

The prosecution sought to prove Dr. Adams drugged a rich widow, Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, to her death to benefit from her will.

I SAW IT

"I saw Dr. Adams give Mrs. Morrell an injection every night," said the nurse.

Then Lawrence took over the cross - examination, producing a set of medical record books.

"You testified Mrs. Morrell ate partridge, celery, pudding and drank a brandy and soda. Hardly a meal for an unconscious woman," Lawrence said.

The nurse lowered her head.

"I see," she said, "that this is what I put down. You see, it was all so long ago."

"You now see it would be quite incorrect to say that Mrs. Morrell was unconscious when Dr. Adams visited her," Lawrence persisted.

I AGREE

"I agree," said the nurse.

"You said earlier Mrs. Morrell was heavily drugged with morphia," Lawrence told her. "Now, from these records there is not a single entry of morphia which you gave her."

Again the nurse lowered her head.

"It seems not," she mumbled.

HELEN STRONACH

No Chance Of Gallows

LONDON (UP) — Final parliamentary action last night abolishing the death penalty for most offences, including poisoning, assured Dr. John Badkin Adams that he will be spared the gallows even if he is convicted of the murder of a wealthy widow patient.

Dismay

'Israel Will March'

JERUSALEM (AP)—The open threat of a new war emerged Tuesday from Israel's dismay at Gaza Strip and Aqaba gulf developments since she turned over those battle-won territories to the United Nations.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion said Israel's army will march against Egypt again if President Nasser "tries to block our historic and legal passage into the gulf of Aqaba." He voiced these views in an interview with a Newsweek magazine correspondent, Curtis G. Pepper, at Tel Aviv.

BLACK DAY

"It would be a black day on the moral conscience of the world if we had to move our army to defend our rights," said the 70-year-old Israeli leader. "We will do it only as a last resort. But if forced, we will do it and do it effectively."

Ben - Gurion implied he hoped for backing from President Eisenhower—"an honorable man, a friend and a general of armies."

'Going Steady Is Pagan Unless Wedding Follows'

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—A Catholic monsignor charged yesterday that "going steady is pagan" unless it is a prelude to marriage.

Rev. Irving A. Deblanc also warned of a teen-age "cult of pleasure" and a possible "hog wild" animal sex instinct in the nation.

Even now, he said, there has been an estimated 400 per cent rise in the number of pregnant brides in the last 10 years. From 10 to 20 per cent of today's brides are already expecting children, he said.

Mr. Deblanc is in charge of the 25th Annual National Catholic Family Life convention here. Five hundred Catholic representatives, including many married couples, have gathered for lectures and discussions on Christian love and marriage.

The Washington, D.C., prelate devoted much of his address to a warning of the dangers when teen-aged boys and girls pair off and "go steady" for long periods.

The widespread practice "will have to be stopped if the concept of Christian marriage is to be saved," Mr. Deblanc said.

"Going steady is pagan unless there is a reasonable chance of getting married within two years," he said.

"Dating and going steady should be preparations for marriage. They should not be used as a type of recreation or marriage in miniature, without the responsibilities of marriage."

The same applies, to an even greater extent, to teen-aged "necking" or "petting," Mr. Deblanc said.

He charged a "feverish, hectic effort" is being made to perfect an anti-fertility pill for women which "will permit the animal sex instinct to go hog wild."

'It Was a Terrible Decision'

Old Bill Left to Die

DUNFERMLINE, Scotland (UP)—Six men faced an agonizing decision 1,500 feet below ground yesterday—whether to leave Bill O'Brien to die or risk losing their own lives trying to save him.

O'Brien and six others were cementing a new pit shaft almost a mile below ground at the Valleyfield Colliery when the shaft wall collapsed on top of them.

O'Brien's six workmates began racing up the spiral ladder leading to the surface, when they heard him crying faintly "help, I'm trapped."

Down they went, to find him buried in the mud and slush. They began to drag him free but then the water began to rise, and the walls to cave in again.

"It was a terrible decision we had to make to leave old Bill dying down there," said Ian MacFarlane, 30, one of the six today. "But we had to get out—otherwise it would have been seven lives instead of one."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"YOU can't keep men with brains in government service," some people argue. "Private industry is bound to grab them. That's one reason why anything run by the government is inefficient."

Robert Swanson, inspector of railways for B.C., is a living denial of that smug saying.

Mr. Swanson is a mechanical wizard who has saved B.C. taxpayers thousands of dollars. Two of his devices have reduced the cost of building the Pacific Great Eastern Railway northward by an estimated $2,000 a day.

One Swanson gimmick is a collapsible rail-carrying car which can be simply taken to pieces and lifted from the rails when it is empty—saving the time it took to shunt old-style cars back to a siding. Swanson had the new-style cars made on the cheap from scrap materials, in a government yard.

Another gadget is an air-compressor mounted on the front of the travelling crane that lays the rails. It makes it possible to tighten bolts by air-wrench instead of by hand.

Both of these devices save precious minutes, which add up to hours and dollars, neither of them have put a nickel in Swanson's pocket. He invented them in the line of duty.

Swanson also invented an air-whistle which sounds like a steam-whistle, for Diesels. It sells in several countries, and the inventor draws royalties on it.

Any Objections?

He is a director of Airchime Ltd., the outfit that controls the manufacture of the whistles. It's an honorary post. Any objections so far?

Swanson also devised a foolproof safety device for the air-brake systems of trucks. It brings a truck and trailer to a halt when a hose or valve snaps in the system, and it won't let go until the driver pulls a lever.

In an air-brake system without such protection, certain kinds of damage, caused by flying stones or simple wear, can let loose all the air, leave the truck without brakes. Some air-brake systems will clamp on brakes automatically, but let them go automatically too when pressure builds up again—maybe when the driver is under the truck.

Interstate Commerce Commission in the United States considered making such safety devices compulsory, but postponed action.

Swanson felt that such devices were necessary to save lives. Two men died on B.C. highways when their trucks ran away because of a brake failure which such safety devices could have prevented. On rough, steep, logging roads, such protection was even more needed.

Swanson tried to persuade manufacturers to make the protective valves, but they weren't interested — not a large enough market. So he had Airchime Manufacturing Co. make them.

Life-Saving Need

Because Swanson and other competent engineers felt that such devices were a life-saving need on logging roads, a minimum number of them were made compulsory. Another manufacturer produced a costlier arrangement of pressure tanks which did a similar job, though not so well. The department okayed them, too.

The B.C. Loggers' Association went on record as favoring these protective devices—whether Airchime or anybody else made them. And now, other manufacturers are getting ready to market a similar product, because it seems likely that other provinces—and eventually the United States—will decree them as standard equipment.

A CCF member of the legislature launched a public attack on Swanson, hinting that he was using his position as inspector to further his own commercial interests.

Not so, replied Swanson. The department was ready to approve any gadget that made truck brakes safe, no matter whose label was on them. Railways Minister Lyle Wicks has now made a statement backing up Swanson—who, incidentally, was a man about B.C. railways long before Social Credit came on the scene.

The CCF believes that public ownership can be efficient. Yet a CCF member nearly landed a heavy blow on his party's own beliefs, by attacking one of the most valuable men who was ever on a B.C. public payroll.

It's no secret that Swanson has turned down at least one lucrative offer from private industry. Nobody will blame him if he accepts the next one.

Rare White Type

Guiguet Seeks Caribou

Charles Guiguet, biologist with the Provincial Museum and one of the province's leading experts on B.C. mammals, left for the Queen Charlotte Islands last week in search of an elusive "white caribou."

Accompanying Dr. Guiguet is Don Robinson, B.C. game department biologist from Nanaimo.

Only a few men are believed to have seen the mysterious "white caribou." In 1906, H. A. Collison, an Anglican minister, reported seeing four of the animals which were shot by Indians.

At the time it was believed that the four animals were the last of the species, but in 1926 tracks identified as caribou were seen on Graham Island, in the northern Queen Charlotte group.

Dr. Guiguet is expected to return to Victoria early next week.

Vancouver Merger

'Nobody Pushes Herald Around'

No deal involving the Herald, Vancouver's morning newspaper, is contemplated, it was learned last night.

"It is here to stay, and is not going to be pushed around by anyone," said Kenneth Thomson, president of The Thomson Company Ltd., publishers of The Herald. He added that there will be a "dramatic announcement" soon about the future of The Herald.

Mr. Thomson's statement followed speculation about the future of the Herald following unconfirmed reports of a merger of the Province and the Vancouver Sun which would result in the Sun becoming a morning newspaper.

Garden Notes

One of the Queries Ches Hates to Get

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One of the questions I hate to have landed in my lap around this time of the year is just when the seeds of this, that, or the other should be put into the ground. Dates are no guide at all, and there just isn't any pat answer to such a question.

If frost was the only problem, it would be a comparatively simple matter to give a safe date for seed sowing. The average date of the last killing frost in our district is March 27, and if we are prepared to gamble on 1957 being a normal or average year, the odds are all with us if we sow to have our seedlings emerge after this date.

But this may not be a normal year, and hard ground frosts may occur well into April, in which case our early sowings will have "had it." Besides, there are low-lying areas in and around Victoria which are notorious frost pockets, where seedlings have been killed as late as May 9.

Even more important than the air temperature is the condition of the soil, and this will vary tremendously from year to year, according to the rainfall, and from district to district, according to the type of soil. Light, well-drained sandy or gravelly soil is always workable long before you can even venture to set foot on heavy, sticky clay.

If you could watch an experienced farmer at this season of the year, you would probably find him out walking over his fall-plowed fields, head bent and eyes to the ground, and giving a tentative kick to the clods of soil.

FALL APART

Not until the March winds have dried off the ground to the point where the clods fall apart at the touch of his toe will he get out his harrow and seeder.

Given a spell of fine weather in March, there is always the temptation to hurry the seeds into the ground. I'll grant you that it does something for your ego to be the first in your neighbourhood to pick a mess of early peas or pluck the first vine-ripened tomato, but pushing seeds into cold, wet, clammy soil isn't the way to secure the first fruits of the land.

Personally, I have become a Johnny-come-lately as far as seed sowing in the open is concerned. Time and time again I have noticed that plants from mid-April sowings will overtake and pass the stuff from earlier seedings.

You see, we get a lot of cold winds in late March and early April, and the effect of these cold blasts is to make the stems of our young plants turn hard and woody. Later, when growth commences in earnest, the passage of sap is restricted by the hard stem, and the plant simply cannot compete against those with lush and succulent stems.

EASY TEST

There is an easy test you can make to determine whether or not your soil is in fit condition for sowing. Pick up a handful in your fist and squeeze it, then open your hand flat. If it crumbles and tends to fall apart, seeding is in order, but if it retains its shape, better wait for the sun and wind to dry it off a bit more.

Golby Declares:

Simple Schools Wouldn't Work

Many changes in the school curriculum outlined by the department of education would have to be made if Greater Victoria school board was ordered to build only standard classrooms, board chairman W. H. Golby said last night.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said recently the board could be ordered to build nothing but standard classrooms until all students in the district were accommodated.

"The school has to have the facilities to teach what the curriculum demands," Mr. Golby said.

"The curriculum says we must teach home economics, art and industrial art," he said. "These cannot be taught in a standard classroom."

Mr. Peterson's statement came after Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith said in the legislature that he had received complaints that the Greater Victoria school board was building "too elaborate" schools.

Mr. Peterson later said his department could, but not necessarily would, order the board to cut down on "frills."

"If we planned the makeshift buildings some people suggest we build," Mr. Golby said, "I doubt if the department of education would give approval for the construction."

Reports circulated in Cairo yesterday that former Soviet foreign minister Dmitri Shepilov may be appointed ambassador to Egypt, replacing Ambassador Evgeni Kisselev.

Where Did the $160,000 Go?

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators reported yesterday that teamster official Frank W. Brewster signed union cheques diverting about $160,000 into "funds" which did not appear in bank records.

Brewster could not explain where part of the money went but denied he had used union funds for "personal gain."

Asked whether he thought he had violated the Washington State larceny law, the teamster boss said that was a "legal question" that he "would not be capable of answering."

The Senate labor rackets committee confronted Brewster with a group of documents purporting to show that union funds were used to make a $4,000 down payment on his Palm Desert, Calif., home and buy him a $180 suit.

Other documents indicated the union bought suits or paid bills for Brewster's horse trainer, jockey and the driver of his horse van.

James R. Hoffa, roly-poly "strong man" of the giant Teamsters Union, was indicted yesterday on charges of bribing an employee of the Senate committee to slip him confidential committee documents.

A federal grand jury also indicted Hyman L. Fischbach, the Miami attorney who allegedly was the link between the teamsters' vice-president and the committee aide. New York attorney John Cye Cheasty.

Both Hoffa and Fischbach were accused of bribery, obstruction of justice, and conspiracy to influence the Senate committee and defraud the United States.

The indictment said Hoffa once remarked to Cheasty after an examination of some committee documents that "it looked like Beck's goose was cooked if that is what they have on Beck."

At Seattle Beck said yesterday the 1,500,000 members of the Teamsters' Union will be asked to give financial and moral support to officers indicted for contempt of Congress.

"It is a union matter," the union's general president declared.

What Will the Province Do?

ARRANGEMENTS for the reconstruction of Point Ellice Bridge have advanced to the stage where main contracts have been let, steel is being pre-fabricated, and the costs factors almost in the final process of being tied down. Until it knows what the provincial government is ready to do, however, the City will not be able to complete the cost analysis and budget for the project in this year's accounts. Unequivocally the provincial government is on record with the pledge that the province will match dollar-for-dollar the contribution of the federal government towards the bridge renewal. It is the province's move now.

A good many people heard Mr. Chant, a member of the cabinet, make this promise on the rostrum in Victoria during the last provincial election. There were no strings to it. The province, he said, would give dollar for dollar to match whatever Ottawa did in assisting Victoria replace the weakened structure. Meanwhile the Dominion has done a good deal. Directly and also through the Canadian National Railway Ottawa is putting up approximately $170,000 towards the cost of the work. This substantial federal assistance has been one of the encouraging factors in the case. By reason of this help the city's costs are being cut down.

Until the provincial government acts to pick up Mr. Chant's pledge the city cannot close its estimates on the work. Mr. Chant, as minister of public works, has been asked directly to say when and in what terms the provincial pledge will be honored. His response has been evasive. With the preliminary stages of the work well advanced and the city committed to the whole undertaking, the old bridge will be closed on June 17 for the main task of reconstruction. There is no room for further delay. Victoria expects the government to keep Mr. Chant's pledge to the letter. The city is entitled to a clear-cut answer now.

What will the province do? And when will Mr. Chant, or the premier himself, say? Until it knows that the city cannot complete its arrangements to remove a span which for years has been little better than a public menace.

Sensible Revision

COMMON-SENSE changes in the Motor Vehicle Act now before the B.C. Legislature should be of great help in the campaign to improve driving standards and traffic conditions throughout the province. When the bill becomes law British Columbia will be the first province to put into effect recommendations of a group of special commissioners who have spent several years devising what is hoped will become a uniform traffic code for Canada; but even if some of the other provinces should fail to go along with this Dominion-wide plan British Columbia will be in a stronger position by acting on it.

The penal sections of the bill reflect the gradual and in some cases reluctant recognition by traffic authorities that punishment is more effective than persuasion, borne home by the consistent failure of elaborate education campaigns to reduce the highway death and accident rate. By doing away with varying fines for different offences and substituting a standard minimum of $10 and maximum of $500 for all driving offences established by the act, the government is placing substantially more power in the hands of magistrates. On how they use it may depend in large measure the improvement resulting from this stiffening of the code. The revised act by itself can accomplish little if the courts do not invoke its more severe terms, the intention of which should be obvious.

The other new sections all appear to be based on good judgment and sensible practice. The one permitting passing on the right where highways or city streets are laned for more than one stream in each direction merely sanctions throughout the province something which is legal only in Vancouver at present. It replaces an ancient and, at intersections, utterly ridiculous prohibition dating back to the days of horse traffic. The chance should be welcomed by Victoria city police who for practical reasons have been permitting motorists to break the law, at their peril if an accident should result.

Application of this section is bound to cause difficulty at first. There will be motorists, probably a great many of them, who will interpret it as permission to pass on the right anywhere, and it will take time to educate them. It means also that local authorities will have to keep lane markings in better repair.

Good Luck Attend Them

THE Victoria Cougars have won a place in the Western Hockey League playoffs. They have done it the hard and for their supporters the tantalizing way. With a disinclination for winning two games in a row they have waited almost until the last moment before setting all doubts at rest. Even if it is apt to cause heart failure among the club's most rabid fans this kind of progress is not altogether to be despised; when victory is alternated fairly regularly with defeat it keeps the issue in suspense and creates an intriguing atmosphere of uncertainty. Variety of this nature can be overdone, of course.

There will be no room for an extension of this pattern in the playoff series, however, a fact of which no one will be more aware than the Cougar players themselves. Near-sudden death is the order of the play with no lengthy period to recoup adverse fortune. Probably a league championship is the more meritorius feat, for it reflects sustained superiority over a whole season. But it is the playoffs which generate the excitement and provide the prizes. Here also previous form is not necessarily a criterion and a club which merely scrapes into the playdowns often turns out to be the one which ends up on top.

Staunch Cougar supoprters will hope that in the present instance the final winner proves to be their favorite hockey team, and the prospects are not unfavorable. The Cougars will have to remove the psychological disadvantage which hitherto has marked their non-success on foreign ice, but otherwise their chances are fairly good. We wish them luck and have no reservations about their enthusiasm. This comment cannot close either without a tribute to Colin Kilburn, whose triple role of player, coach and manager has invested him with an unusually heavy responsibility, although it is one that he carries with remarkable elan and blithe-ness of spirit. It is spirit that counts most in a playoff series, and of this quality we feel sure the Cougars will not be found lacking.

Bermuda Talks May Clear Air

By DAVID BARNETT
North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON British officials expect to plant the seed for the development of a super-national Atlantic Community at discussions with President Eisenhower in Bermuda next week.

The proposal, an idea of British Prime Minister Macmillan, would call for creation of a grand Atlantic parliament that would bring the United States and Canada closer to the countries of Western Europe.

First brought up by British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd at a meeting of ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization last December, the new community would "bring under one umbrella" all of the co-operative agencies that have developed in Europe.

Diplomatic sources here do not anticipate any immediate decision on the proposal, but indicate that the British are eager for some informal agreement on principles that could be a stepping stone toward later detailed discussions.

President Eisenhower is scheduled to arrive in Bermuda on March 20. His discussions with Prime Minister Macmillan are to be concluded on March 24. Canadian Prime Minister St. Laurent will arrive on March 25 for two days of talks with the British leader.

Discussions of the super-national community are expected to flow from the anticipated public approval by President Eisenhower of British plans to go into the European Common Market. The seven-nation European union would be brought under the proposed Atlantic Community, as would the 17-nation organization for European Economic Co-operation, the European Coal and Steel Community and Euratom, the European Atomic Power Agency.

Even tentative discussions of the plan would paint a picture of British-American trust and confidence that would help mend Anglo-American rifts.

No agreement seems possible on British pressure for a relaxation of trade restrictions with Communist China, but the U.S. position on Egyptian Premier Nasser may be considerably closer to the British view by the time the talks start. The British insist Nasser is nothing but a trouble-maker.

* * *

Although the talks are informal, with no prepared agenda, the leaders are expected to exchange views on German reunification, the proposed reduction of British forces in the NATO contingent in Europe, Cyprus and British trade problems.

According to U.S. sources, the major purpose of the talks is to re-establish rapport with the British. One official puts it this way:

"In talking, no matter what disagreements, the essential is confidence. It would be futile to think that we can resolve the differences of years, but if we can edge toward greater understanding and get back on a mutual trust basis, that will be the most important thing we can accomplish."

A NOSE is a nose is a nose, as Gertrude Stein might have exclaimed but didn't, and as the husband of a TV winner last week says: "You get used to it."

In this case the lady decided after all to keep the large adornment nature had provided, even though it constituted the misfortune that won her the price of a new one.

Different was the young movie starlet who had her nose lifted; well, as a matter of fact she had it lowered. That is to say, she had the Roman taken out of it.

The Roman nose, it has been averred, had an eagle's beak, as per Falstaff's remark that Caesar was a "hook-nosed" fellow and a la Wellington who wasn't a Roman at all. A great nose indicates a great man. So a comforter told Cyrano de Bergerac without, apparently, eliciting agreement.

Unlike Durante, who boomed his extravagant facial organ to fame and fortune and on a lesser scale the TV lady de Bergerac let his blight his life.

* * *

And, of course, a nose can be a blight, as doubtless many a man says to himself every morning when he looks in the mirror. If this be so, milady in the person of the young starlet must be excused.

How much more such an excrescence when it is bestowed on the wrong sex!

The starlet had frankness and some logic in her favor. Said she:

"People have their hair dyed, braces put on their teeth, and lifts added to their shoes—to say nothing of other places. So why have a false sense of shame about plastic surgery?"

Why, indeed!

If one can have new teeth, why not a new nose? Especially since noses are such important things, and I am not now thinking of nature's gift as an olfactory instrument. That is a mere by-product.

Where would a face be without this adornment, for instance?

* * *

Yet, like baptismal names, few noses suit their owners in their own estimation. I mean. They are either too long, too short, too broad or too thin. They turn up or turn down. Or, like milady of the movies, they have too much bridgework.

Why not be unafraid and go to a plastic surgeon? It may mean a new face but as it is many new faces emerge from a dental surgeon's.

Tinkering with the nose is an old human story in any event. The Polynesian Maori, in the interests of beauty and joy, bores a hole in the nose in order to wear fashionable jewelry. And if the initial puncture is made with the painted bone of an enemy so much the better.

There is really little difference between this and the modern habit of boring holes in the ears for the same purpose, except that metal dangling on the lips must interfere with a certain form of enjoyment.

* * *

Poll tax authorities would be astonished if someone suggested a nose tax in its place, yet once there was such a levy. The Danes imposed it on Irishmen in the ninthcentury, after a regular Donnybrook no doubt, although actually it was a head tax. The nose came into the picture when it was slit as a penalty for evasion.

That is why some people said of the poll tax, happily now officially demode, that they were paying through the nose.

There is ample precedent, then, for doing something about an unpleasing nose. But what if the new nose did not satisfy? Here perhaps is where doubt creeps in.

One may change one's dentures as often as whim and one's purse decrees, but could one treat a nasal appendage like a hair do — different every few months?

The TV lady has room to change her mind again but the starlet, I suppose, is stuck with her new nose for life.

Letter from London

Budget Prospects in Britain

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, Daily Colonist Correspondent

BRITISH budget day is now scheduled for April 9 and speculation is greater than is normal at this time of year. The main reason, of course, is the substantial swing against the government in recent by-elections and whether the budget will be used to try and bring back some wayward supporters to the fold. More important, perhaps than the actual swing against the government is the studied apathy of many Conservatives.

Deliberate abstention seems to be a growing method of protest against present tendencies, especially in the taxation field. Hard-bitten Tories are quite open in their denunciation of present policy and the only way they can show their criticism effectively is by not voting. There are signs that this tendency is beginning to spread to some back-benchers in the House of Commons. The position has caused the government a great deal of concern.

The first straw in the wind of the changing policy was the reduction of the bank rate. It has also been noted that the depressed motor industry—heavily hit by the twin evils of credit squeeze and petrol rationing—has revived tremendously under the influence of easier credit sales (deposits down to 20 per cent instead of 50 per cent).

Most people are expecting substantial taxation concessions in the budget—concessions which will eliminate much of the present frustration which has done so much to create endless migration queues.

It will also do much to restore the spirit of enterprise which has been flagging seriously under the influence of such crippling taxation that $7,000 a year is the most a man may hope to be able to earn effectively without resorting to the wangle of expense accounts. Few capable men are prepared to have to earn $2,80 in order to have 35c to spend which is the position in the top income group.

There is little doubt too that only by reduced taxation is there any hope for stabilized prices. Most commodities in daily use are inflated artificially by direct and indirect taxation. It has been estimated, for example, that 35 per cent of all transport costs. Is taxation—either in the form of nationalized railway losses or the heavy tax on road transport which now amounts to nearly 60c on a gallon of fuel costing 90c.

* * *

The little birds which always carry whispers from the councils of government at this time of year are quite unanimous that a frontal attack is to be made on the incidence of taxation in the belief that greater incentive and higher earning power will so increase the nation's productivity that a lesser taxation on greater receipts will more than provide for governmental needs.

Suggested too is that an attack may be made on the size of the civil service army. It has reached the point where nearly one person in ten is working for either national or local government. Some aspect of governmental control is with us from the cradle to the grave, and there is little doubt that the bureaucratic machine has got right out of hand.

Socialists argue the moral virtues of a regulated state, the value of security, and "fair shares for all" even if it needs a dozen inspectors to ensure the distribution but there seems little doubt that the cost of the bureaucratic state is alarming and has become one vast snowball which shows signs of running away.

It is not an easy problem for the government. The welfare state has a measure of popularity—most people see in it the ageless attraction of something for nothing and fail to relate the incidence of taxation to the "free" amenities.

Obviously things cannot continue as they are. With a migration queue which has passed the 200,000 mark, a mounting spiral of inflationary tendencies and ever-increasing living costs it is not possible to keep things in control without actual physical restraints on individual liberty, which so far have not been contemplated in Britain although some Socialists have talked glibly—and possibly innocently of the implications of the need to restrict emigration.

The hope of April 9th is that the government will not merely tinker with the problem but make a frontal attack and really resolve to loosen the chains of government control to the point where the people are really set free and may once again be able to claim the major share of the fruits of their industry.

The Ides of Bock

By JOHN MOSEDALE, North American Newsaper Alliance

NEW YORK Bock, the beer that Germans passed a law against, today exists in the United States only as a symbol of Spring.

In many sections of the country, those who like their beer dark must do all their drinking in a few March weeks. It was not always thus; one springtime memory of childhood in a German-American city is of a goat hauling a barrel through neighboring streets, accompanied by a frau in Tyrolean costume.

Bock, a rich mahogany in color, bitter-sweet to the taste, has so far fallen in American favor that representatives of neither the National Brewers' Academy nor the U.S. Brewers' Foundation can tell you how much is sold.

They say that it is a fractionalized percentage of the 85,000,000 barrels of beer which, foundering thought, the United States consumed last year. Because of the storage requirements, most U.S. brewers turn out only enough to carry them through the bock season.

It is said to have originated in the German municipality of Kilbeck. Possibly from drinking too much of it the natives confused "Kilbeck" with "ein bock"—German for "a goat." The association was obvious.

Peasants got to drinking it sociably, and so powerful was its early kick—that they sowed and did not reap. This being the middle ages, the nobility put its foot down and decreed a ban on bock.

An exception was made during the pagan-born rites of spring—the "Fasching," a period of revel. During these bacchanalian days, the powerful potion was again allowed, and it has been associated with the Ides of March and the income tax ever since.

One source says that the oldest legible clay tablet yet dug up by archeologists is a Babylonian sheet of about 6000 B.C. It shows a bunch of the boys in an Ur saloon, turning out beer for a sacrifice.

The Babylonians used barley and honey in their beer. The bitter-tasting hops used in bock and lager were probably first brewed by the Germans, who developed their fermented beverages independently of the rest of the world, notably the Incas of the pre-Spanish era and the Chinese of as long ago as 2300 B.C.

So successful were the Germans that beer was soon regarded as a staple for monasteries. The famous St. Gall monastery in Switzerland had not one but three breweries, and the average allowance for monks of the middle ages was one gallon a day.

But perhaps beer's greatest adoration was Ramses III of Egypt. His will was law and mighty was his sway, 1187 years before Christ, but when he died do you know what he chose to have represented on his vaulted tomb?

An inscription proclaiming that he had consecrated to the deities more than 106,000 jugs of beer.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN THE table restaurant where I customarily eat lunch the waitresses have an equal number of tables to look after. I think it is five.

And it is curious to observe how some of the waitresses are in a fury of activity, while others seem to have quite a lot of time to lean against the serving slide-boards idly watching.

I supposed that it was a matter of appetite on the part of the customers. Big eaters made hasting waitresses. But day after day it could hardly be that some waitresses always got big eaters while others got skim; yet it was always the same girls who were hasting and always the same ones who were taking it easy.

I drew this mystery to my wife's attention when we were hasing lunch together.

"So," she said, "it's the same with housekeeping. Some women have to do one thing at a time. Others can do three or four things at the same time. Now you watch that little stout waitress."

That was the one who was always in a flurry.

"Look," said my wife. She went over and got the table napkins. Now she is hasting back to the serving table for the basket of rolls. Watch. There she goes back to the same place for the ketchup bottle."

At an adjoining table another waitress was calmly laying our new places at a vacated table. In her hands she had cutlery, table napkins, bread and butter plates, which she spread about effortlessly.

As her hustling little colleague brushed by with an armload of used dishes, the leisurely one deftly picked a glass ash tray from the load.

Calmly she went over to the serving table, dusted out the ash tray, picked up a fresh basket of bread and rolls, two menus, her order pad and pencil, two patties of butter and returned to her vacant table just in time to greet the new customers who were about to be seated.

In the distance, I could see the little hustling waitress hustling still, towards us, all the way from the kitchen, bringing a small side dish of something she had forgotten in her previous journey from the kitchen.

"Law and order," my wife submitted, "is inside the personality."

Letters to the Editor

Kind Bus Drivers

I was amazed to read the letter of G. M. Jones in regard to a small boy being forced to walk home for lack of a bus ticket. I agree that the boy received most unsympathetic treatment from the bus driver and can quite see that the boy's parents would wish to bring it to the attention of the public. However, I feel I cannot let the criticism pass without voicing the feeling of myself and several of my friends whose children ride the bus to school.

We have frequently remarked on the kindness and thoughtfulness with which the drivers handle the children and have watched in the utmost admiration the manner in which the drivers frequently go out of their way to keep the children safe and happy.

I have three children attending St. Ann's Academy and for the past seven years one or all of them have been riding the No. 2 Gonzales bus. They have all on occasion lost a bus ticket and have been told "That's all right. Pay me tomorrow." Recently they even lost 10 cents of the required 25 cents to buy tickets, and the driver, whom they did not know at all, told them to bring him the money "next week, when he'd be on again." As I realize that would come out of his own pocket, I thought it particularly obliging.

(Mrs.) WANDA K. GILL.

220 Irving Road, Victoria, B.C.

I think the little boy who lost his bus fare must have contacted the one and only bus driver in Victoria who would have refused a ride. It certainly was distressing to his parents, and I am merely writing this, after reading G. M. Jones' letter, because I find the bus drivers so courteous.

One Sunday morning I found on reaching the bus stop I had left all my change in another suit. The bus driver not only paid my fare himself, but handed me 10 cents to come home with!

I agree that the passengers might have come to the rescue of such a little chap.

Victoria's Portias

Mrs. Eileen Learoyd's article in your issue of March 10 concerning Mrs. Joan F. Williams in particular and lady lawyers in general, paid tribute to the Portias in our midst. May I provide a footnote?

The first Victoria-born lady to be called to the bar and admitted as a solicitor in this city was Miss Ringland, now Mrs. James A. Bland. She was presented to the court on July 7, 1919.

The next Victoria-born lady to become a lawyer was Miss Dorothy Maude Mackie, called and admitted on Jan. 5, 1925.

All the four ladies now practising law in Victoria are graduates of the Law Faculty of the University of British Columbia, and Mrs. Williams is the senior member of that sisterhood. The doyenne of the distaff side of our profession, she enjoys the well-merited esteem of her professional sisters and brothers in law.

Fire Protection

There have been several news items in the local papers recently in regard to fire protection for Victoria West area while the Point Ellice Bridge is closed for repairs. It has been suggested that this would be looked after by the Esquimalt and naval fire departments. I believe a few facts should be brought to the attention of the general public in regard to this matter.

The municipality of Esquimalt has no properly organized fire department, as such; fires in Esquimalt are fought by the police department. Members of this department are trained policemen, not firemen. This being the case Esquimalt could not take care of Victoria West.

The naval fire department may be called to assist at fires in Esqimalt if called upon by the police department; but, according to my information, if required for an emergency in their own area they would be ordered back regardless of how serious the situation in the municipality. They do not answer calls from private citizens.

In order to protect any area it is necessary that the firemen have a complete knowledge of the area, such as streets, locations of hydrants, whereabouts of all factories, public buildings, etc. They must also have a full knowledge of any additional hazards they might encounter.

I do not believe that this suggestion will meet with the approval of the men in either the city or naval fire departments.

Foreign Control

I should like to return once again to the subject of American control of Canadian unions and labor.

In your issue of March 15 I quote "Hoffa's position as international vice-president of the teamsters gives him jurisdiction over Canada's 26,700 members in 36 locals as well as over eastern and southern states."

I wish to repeat that no other country in the world, however backward, would tolerate for one minute the control of its labor and unions by a foreign agency.

$100 Pension

This is my answer to Finance Minister Harris and the Liberal administration at Ottawa. I will not support or vote for anyone that does not advocate $100 per month pension for the needy old-age pensioners. I am a taxpayer and needy old-age pensioner.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anaesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

$20 Tax On TV Proposed

OTTAWA (BUP) — The Fowler commission on television and radio broadcasting will soon recommend major changes in the financing, administrative and competitible features of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, informed sources said Tuesday.

The major proposals are reported to include:

A new source of financial support for television by the imposition of a $20-per-household licence fee.

Granting private television broadcasting licences in cities hitherto reserved for CBC monopoly.

Continuation of the existing CBC board of governors, but with some modification of its authority over private broadcasting stations.

The general opinion is that the St. Laurent administration will be lukewarm toward the idea of a $20 television tax. This could result in the entire report being pigeonholed, at least until after the general election.

Visits Brighten Days

Volunteer visitors for Victoria's senior citizens are needed by the Silver Threads Society, Community Chest agency for elderly people. Volunteer visitor Mrs. Daphne Temple, right, chats with Mrs. Irene Skillen, 88, who lives in a nursing home, one of some 500 who do not have a visitor from year to year. Anyone wishing to volunteer to visit elderly persons in Victoria should call Glen Hamilton, Silver Threads director, at 2-5121, on week days.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

First Survey One-Way?

Street Plan Opposition Overwhelming

Ninety-three businesses lining both sides of Douglas from Yates north to the Fountain Circle yesterday recorded overwhelming opposition to one-way, northbound traffic on Douglas "at any point south of the circle."

A questionnaire signed by merchants in an independent survey tallied 89 "noes" against only four "yeses."

The percentage—4.3 per cent for, 95.7 per cent against—completely reversed the figures submitted in a surprise report by Ald. Millard Mooney Monday, which showed 83 per cent in favor of a one-way street plan, either permanent or temporary.

City lawyer Lloyd McKenzie, spokesman for the six-member group of merchants which conducted the independent survey, charged that the "questionnaire" from which Ald. Mooney obtained his figures was unfair in that it offered no opportunity to express a negative vote.

"The lead on the petition left the impression that a one-way plan for Douglas would be instituted regardless of merchants' views," he said.

"The alternate columns on the petition were headed 'permanent basis' and 'trial basis.'

"Without a chance to record absolute opposition to the plan, I can't understand why Ald. Mooney's report didn't show 100 per cent in favor of the plan," he said.

Questionnaire used in the merchants' survey asked:

Do you favor at this time making any part of Douglas Street a one-way street for northbound traffic only, anywhere south of the Roundabout?

There was space for both a "yes" vote and a "no" vote.

The six Douglas Street firms—not just the Hudson's Bay Co. as indicated in the mayor's remarks to city council Monday—have engaged consulting traffic engineer D. Jackson Faustman at their own expense to supply an alternative plan for the roundabout, using two-way streets.

Firms in the group are Eddy's Ltd., Hudson's Bay Co., Victoria City Motels Ltd., Paul's Drive In, Angus Marine and Stewart Warner.

The recommendation of the engineer in his report to council on Victoria's traffic problems, was for one-way traffic from Herald to the roundabout, northbound on Douglas, southbound on Government.

Learning that an independent survey was being undertaken by the merchants, Mayor Scurrah said yesterday: "I'm glad they are. It may influence our thinking."

The mayor also said he thought it would be fair to assume that the opinion found on Douglas would reflect the thinking of the people on Government.

A report on the merchants' survey will be submitted to council at a special meeting today, as will a report on a survey of Government Street opinion made at the suggestion of Ald. Mooney.

Socreds 'Already Winner'

Premier Bennett feels Social Credit has already won the next provincial election.

He told the legislature yesterday that every time the government did something good for the people it was winning elections. Governments didn't win just by doing work at election time but by doing good work all the time.

"We've won the next one already," he said.

High School Drama

Festival Providing First-Class Acting

By BERT BINNY

The evening program of the Victoria Schools Drama Festival yesterday provided four plays which might be tagged as three dramas and a comedy.

First came "Treasure Hunt," presented by S. J. Willis School. The lead part of Lady Falconbridge was played by Milla Fitterer. Her grasp of the part's intent was excellent but her characterization was rather unfortunate. She played waspishly rather than with dignity.

A competent cast from St. Margaret's School gave an impressive performance of a T. B. Morris historical drama, "White Queen, Red Queen."

Central Junior High School's "The Sentimental Scarecrow" was an entertaining piece of nonsense stiffened with the odd moral.

The Gypsy Dancers—from the Central Folk Dancers' Club—supplied a colorful interlude. Pamela Daniel's Scarecrow was satisfactorily built up but the most vital and impressive player was Darlene Moore as Polly.

The evening program concluded with Victoria High School's Recognition Scene from Act II of "Anastasia." Narrator Georgina Pethard got the performance away to a fine start with a completely lucid and adequate prologue.

The scene itself belonged to Donna Robertson as the Dowager Empress.

The S. J. Willis School Band entertained with overture music and between plays. This provided tuneful and welcome diversion but the foreign noises of feet, doors and voices which all too often accompanied the actual performances were just the opposite.

A further six plays will be presented in the festival today.

During the afternoon session at Victoria West School, four plays were presented before Adjudicator Mrs. Dorothy Goldrick, who found them "very interesting and amusing."

First came Victoria West Elementary's stylized play, "The Blue Willow Plate" which was characterized by excellent costuming and makeup and clever scenic effect.

Outstanding among the performers in this colorful presentation were Heikki Isomaa as the accommodating and efficient Property Man, Brian Kernoff as Koong Shee and Elaine Ennis as Oh La La.

James Bay's "Make Him Smile" was entertaining with excellent speech and good cueing. Dawn Bumphrey, Dorothy Best and Tommy McNie did excellently. Again there were fine costuming and color.

Third on the program was Metchosin's "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," all in the original verse. Offstage effects and exercise points were quite deftly handled here, with some more particularly clear voices to be heard. Among them were those of Evelyn Strawson, Andrea Walker and Jacquelyn Russell.

The afternoon concluded with a junior high school presentation, "Fools All Four" by Mount Newton.

Tisha Richard, a very high calibre actress, gave an exemplary performance as Karen Olson and she was well supported by Janet Milligan, George Vanderkracht and Wayne Hannah. This was a very delightful interlude indeed, again well set and carefully costumed.

Firm Reports:

Swanson Director 'In Name Only'

Robert Swanson, provincial superintendent of railways, is a director in name only of the company that manufactures an air chime he invented, the legislature was told Monday night.

Railways Minister Lyle Wicks read, in answer to questions asked recently by John Squire (CCF, Albernii), a letter from the solicitor for Air Chime Manufacturing Co. Ltd.

Swanson was made a director of the company as "a courtesy" but he never took part in any meetings or took any active interest in the company, the letter said.

Mr. Squire, who had questioned "as a matter of principle" Swanson being in the position of passing inspection on an article he had designed, said he "regretted" the incident.

"I don't doubt for one minute the sincerity of Mr. Swanson's intentions," and he never inferred the inspector was making any money from the company, Mr. Squire stressed.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

TV Eating Itself Up

On television recently we have had talking dogs, a monkey playing baseball with Dave Garroway, long-distance telephone calls from Arthur Godfrey, and interviews with Charles Van Doren—all of them splendid examples of television's peculiar habit of eating itself up.

It was much and go there for a minute as to who made the least sense—Arthur Godfrey on the long distance telephone or the talking dog, who seemed exclusively concerned with the West Indian yam known as waw-waw.

Godfrey on the long distance phone sounded like Gerald McBoing Boing doing a rock 'n' roll number with a trio I've decided to call the Three Sunspots. Still he wouldn't get off the phone.

Watching the East listen to this blip-blop-week-wawk-bloo-bloo, a brand new noise that Mitch Miller, I'm sure, will incorporate into his next record, was a thrilling new experience in my viewing pleasure.

* * *

It occurred to me while watching this remarkable demonstration of nothing that the long distance telephone has no future on television anyway.

The whole idea of television under what I learned at my mother's knee was hopelessly wrong—is that picture and sound are wedded, that you can see as well as hear. Now when you have a program in which you can't see the performer I can't avoid the conclusion that we have retrogressed.

Not a Single Word

Well, sir — if you'll bear with me—then suppose you have a television program in which you not only cannot see the performer but cannot understand a single damned word the man says, then, sir, I say we are going backward at top speed.

Even in Equatorial Africa, they have jungle drums which can converse back and forth for miles with greater clarity than this.

* * *

Now, as to those talking dogs on the Will Rogers show, I say it's agin nature. You may well say that I am overly conservative in these matters but, confound it, I cling to the idea that if dogs wanted to talk they would have talked a long time ago. It is my theory that dogs have figured out that talk is what got mankind into all the trouble in the first place.

This theory has been more than confirmed by watching the dogs on the Will Rogers show being badgered into conversation. They look tormented, as if they were betraying the whole species. The dog world agreed to keep its mouth shut and every word cajoled out of the dogs on the Rogers show seems to be not only physiologically difficult, but morally reprehensible.

New 'Today' Chimp

That brings us up to Kokomo Jr., the new chimp on the "Today" show. What, you may well ask, happened to the old chimp, J. Fred Muggs, the most famous member of the chimp family since King Kong? Well, it was in essence the same thing that happened to Marilyn Monroe. He wasn't getting the parts he felt his fame accustomed him to.

Muggs was drawing down $1,275 a week; meanwhile, "Today" was gravitating more in the direction of a serious news show and the chimp parts were being held down to a walk-on.

This was below Muggs' dignity, so he branched out on his own. He's now free to do movie and night club dates and other things befitting his star standard. Nothing stands still in this business.

* * *

Besides building up chimps to the point where they are too big to do walk-ons, television is now building up quiz participants to the point where they are too big for anything short of retirement.

Charles Van Doren is now being interviewed like a channel swimmer 25 years ago—and all this is gravely filmed and put on news shows. How does he feel? What's his mental condition? Is he going to get married? How is his muscle tone?

The great thing about television is that it is widespread and reaches many, many people and you may be assured that somebody somewhere found al this information relevant.

That Last Pitch

I saw Johnny Podres fire that last pitch. There was the soft grounder to Pee Wee Reese which he rifled over to Gil Hodges and the Dodgers had won their first World Series. I was there, too, when Jack Barry threw that fatal curve.

"Who is the king of Belgium?"—and waffled Charles Van Doren, who is everyone's adopted quiz contestant, go down to defeat. I missed the firing on Fort Sumter and the signing of the Magna Carta, but those were relatively trifling affairs.

* * *

One of our most endearing traits—and one of our most precious assets—is our way of getting all worked up over World Series or quiz contestants. It is a wonderful way to let off steam. I reckon it keeps us out of a lot of trouble.

If the Germans had had a World Series, they would not, I think, have got so worked up over the Sudetenland. We might well export our quiz contestants. As a matter of fact, we have—the quiz idea having taken root in England and Italy where I devoutly hope it will alleviate deeper discontents.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South

2 ♠	3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠
4 ♠	All Pass

Opening lead: ♣ K

Today's deal presents a clear-cut problem to which the solution is comparatively simple. The problem: What would North lead after winning the first trick? The solution: Figure out what cards West must have to justify his bidding.

The bidding won't go as shown here every time this hand is played. Sometimes South won't have an opportunity to bid clubs. It doesn't matter. West must do some strong bidding in order to reach a game contract. Looking at the high cards in his own hand and in the dummy, North should realize that West must have a spade suit that is substituted by East's king, the ace of diamonds so that it is bound to get ruffed on dummy's diamond suit, and almost surely the king of hearts as well. Therefore, it is essential for South to get the lead in a hurry and play a heart up to North's ace-queen.

Of course, South should help his partner by playing the club eight on the first lead. In any case, North must understand the ace of clubs because the queen of clubs is the only high card South can possibly hold. When South wins the second club trick, it is obvious that he must return a heart, and North's ace-queen in that suit furnish the setting tricks.

WINNING POINTS

Remember, the bidding. It will otherwise be your best guide to winning play.

PWA May Fly Wenner-Gren Area

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. said yesterday it has applied for licences to operate commercial air services in the area which Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Co. Ltd. plans to explore.

The company is asking air transport board authority to fly persons and goods from bases at Prince George, Fort McLeod and Port St. John in northern British Columbia.

Expert Looks at Future

No Single Cancer Cure

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of North America's leading cancer researchers says there will never be a single, all-powerful cure for cancer.

Prof. V. R. Potter of the University of Wisconsin says scores of different cures may be necessary to kill the many varieties of cancer [illegible]

But the cures will have a common basis, he predicted yesterday. They will be derived through chemical — not radiation — research.

Prof. Potter said radiation treatment is "an important part of the cancer specialist's armament" but the problem can best be approached through chemistry.

"Any form of radiation is potentially dangerous," he said. "Every bit of radiation we can keep out of our bodies should be kept out. X-rays should be avoided unless the necessity for their use overcomes the possibility of encouraging cancer."

Prof. Potter was here to confer with officials of the Canadian Cancer Society's B.C. division and to lecture at the University of British Columbia Medical School.

Fear is still crippling the fight against cancer, says Dr. R. M. Taylor, executive director of the Canadian Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute.

He said 30 of 50 patients studied in Montreal's English-speaking hospitals delayed more than three months in going to their doctors, even though they had guessed they had cancer.

He said 95 per cent of those who delayed had never previously had a satisfactory doctor-patient relationship with any physician.

If Canada 'Leaderless' Socreds Are Ready

Premier Bennett said yesterday the forced retirement of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Trade Minister C. D. Howe in the coming federal election would be all the more reason why Social Credit should be elected as the federal government.

Federal-provincial relations and conferences during the past two years had been on "a very friendly basis," he informed the legislature.

DIFFERENCES AT TIMES

"Naturally there have been differences at times, but that must never lead people to believe that we're not all Canadians," said the premier. "If there is one government for a united Canada it is this government."

He lauded Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mr. Howe as "great Canadians."

"You're saying this about Liberals?" interjected Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East).

"We're all Canadians," answered the premier. "And it will be a bad day when a member of a political party can't say a good word for a member of another party . . ."

"Remember that next June," CCFers called across the floor, a reference to the coming federal election.

"I didn't intend to say this until I was interrupted," Premier Bennett said. "It is regrettable that those great Canadians, Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mr. Howe, will not be remaining with the Liberal government very long and they will retire and leave the Liberals leaderless, and that is all the more reason why Social Credit should take over in Ottawa."

School boards throughout B.C. will share an additional $1,000,000 in government education grants as a result of amendments to legislation now before the House.

Education Minister Leslie R. Peterson said the amendments would be brought in during the committee stage of the debate on the act to amend the Public Schools Act.

As the act stands at present the teacher-salary grants paid by the government are computed on the basis of the number of teachers employed by school boards in 1955. No provision was made for additional teachers who joined schools last year.

This will now be done every year.

Trial Opens

Driver Describes Fatal Smashup

Elvin Warren Slater, young Victoria truck driver, went on trial before Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne in Assize Court yesterday, charged with criminal negligence following an accident which proved fatal to Archdeacon Robert Little of Langford.

The accident happened last Sept. 25 on the old Island Highway beyond Parsons Bridge.

Slater, on the stand for the defence when the case was adjourned until today, told the court he'd delivered a load of coal to Langford on Sept. 25, and was on his way back to Victoria when the accident happened.

He was following a milk truck, and near the crest of a hill by an auto court pulled to the left to see if he could pass.

A small car, he said, was directly in front of him, and he remembered little of what happened next. There was an impact, then his flat-deck truck was off the road.

He said he turned off the ignition and ran back to the smaller car. There he found Mrs. Little, injured, in the front passenger seat of the car. Archdeacon Little was lying in the ditch.

Slater himself, he told the court, suffered no injuries, just shock.

Donald M. Pedden, driver of the milk truck, was a crown witness. He told of seeing the coal truck close behind him from Colwood Corner on to the accident scene, and of seeing the accident also in his side rear-view mirror.

Other crown witnesses included Mrs. Little, who remembered nothing of the accident; Sgt. J. H. S. P. Jones, RCMP identification expert, who photographed and measured the accident scene, and officers from the Colwood RCMP detachment who attended the accident.

Donald Anderson is defence counsel, and Robert A. Wootton is crown prosecutor.

TCA Makes Check

MONTREAL (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines announced Tuesday it will replace part of the wing flap mechanism in longer-service members of its 24-plane fleet of Viscount turbo-prop aircraft.

The operation, dictated by last week's Manchester, England, crash of a model 701 Viscount in which 22 persons died, was described by a company spokesman as an "ultra-ultra precaution."

A company statement said it was decided on after conferring with the Vickers Company which manufactures the medium-range aircraft. Earlier Tuesday, TCA had announced that it had made a precautionary check of 14 of its Viscounts and would do the same with the rest. It has model 745 machines—a newer version.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Viscount airliner in which Prime Minister St. Laurent is scheduled to fly to Bermuda March 25 has been thoroughly checked, transport department officials said Tuesday. The Viscount in question is operated by the department.

Court Action

Sabbath Law Test Set

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario courts are to decide whether it is lawful to publish or broadcast news and advertising on Sundays.

Attorney-General Roberts set the stage Tuesday for the court test, announcing in the Ontario legislature that he has instructed officials of the Crown to launch an action against the Toronto Telegram, under the Lord's Day Act of 1906, for publishing a Sunday newspaper.

He also disclosed that he has consented to prosecutions on complaints by the Telegram, against Toronto's two other daily newspapers—the Globe and Mail and the Star—along with the CBC and radio station CKEY.

The Telegram, an evening daily launched its Sunday newspaper last weekend. The morning Globe and Mail issues its first Monday edition Sunday night. The Evening Star does not issue a paper on Sunday.

A prepared statement Mr. Roberts read to the legislature said prosecution against the Telegram was "based upon the publication, sale and distribution" of the Sunday Telegram on Sunday, March 17.

Hefty Ed Davis of Port Alberni, at 280 pounds the biggest skip in the fifth annual Victoria bonspiel, gets plenty of help from his mates during a game at the Victoria Curling Club last night. Davis is still in contention in the two tertiary events of the week-long competition. Members of the rink include Ben wright (left), mayor of Alberni, Dennis Thain (centre) and Jack Begg. —(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Five from Victoria

Nine Rinks Undefeated In Annual City 'Spiel

Nine rinks, five of them from Victoria, remained undefeated in yesterday's action in the fifth annual bonspiel at the Victoria Curling Club.

Glen Walkey of Victoria, moving up one notch Monday by a default, was the farthest advanced, being in the 16s of both primary events, the Grand (Dominion Hotel) Challenge and the Colonist Challenge.

Walkey moved into the 16s of the Colonist event yesterday with victories over Larry Marshall of Victoria and Warren Paul of Port Alberni.

Also with three playing victories, and all in the 16s of the Grand Challenge and the 32s of the Colonist Challenge, were Laurie Perlette, Ed Wilson, Wilkie Gardiner and Dr. Kirby Moysey of Victoria, Fred Tinling and Art Gooder of Vancouver, Harry Spottiswood of Port Alberni and Ed Valleau of Duncan.

Only other rink in the 16s of the Colonist event was Tony Gutoski of Victoria, who defeated Jack Adams, RCN, and Max Zabel of Victoria yesterday. Gutoski, however, was knocked out of the Grand Challenge on Monday by Charlie Watson of Victoria.

PLAY SCATTERED

Play yesterday was scattered through four of the six events and up to last night's late draw, 13 rinks had reached the 16s in the two secondary events, the Eaton's and the Ker & Stephenson.

B.C. ASSOCIATION WANTS LEVY. The Vancouver Island golf clubs are being asked to approve a levy of five cents a month on their members to provide funds for the B.C. Golf Association's youth development fund.

In a letter to clubs, Walter McElroy, chairman of the B.C. committee, points out that funds from the National Golf Day, sponsored last year by RCGA, were insufficient to meet the requirements of the province. Funds from the National Golf Day have been used to meet expenses of youngsters wanting to take part in the B.C. junior championship, and for various tuition projects.

The letter, however, does not give any undertaking as to how the funds will be distributed, and further clarification on the point seems desirable.

MORRISON-SCROGGS RENEW BUTTON CHALLENGE. Never behind until they lost the last hole, the Doug Munro-Einar Brynjolfson Victoria club team put up a good fight before losing the city buttons Sunday to Bill McColl and Vic Painter at Colwood.

The new holders will have one chance to defend the buttons before the start of the Vancouver Island Open championship on March 31. They will meet Bob Morrison and Frank Scroggs, also past holders, at Gorge Vale, Sunday, starting at 1.

The junior buttons game will be between Cliff Horwood and Jim Walker, the new holders from the Victoria club, who meet Norm Boden and Tim Bradshaw of Gorge Vale.

NEW OFFICIALS ELECTED AT GORGE. John Carlow was re-elected president of Gorge Vale Golf Club at this week's annual meeting, but five of the eight elected to office are newcomers.

Vice-president is A. S. Robertson, a member of last year's board of directors, and the new captain is Joe Painer.

The board consists of R. Edwards, A. Gillies, Lloyd Cann, Mrs. R. Wakelin and R. Deakin.

Construction of extra caddy cart storage space is to be considered by the new board.

THE PRESIDENT WINS. It was wet but everyone enjoyed himself at the annual President vs. Captain's match at Victoria club, Saturday.

President Bill Haldane's team scored a surprise win over Captain George Bigelow's by 22 points to 20. More than 80 players took part in the four-ball contest.

Members of the losing team stood the dinner which followed.

TRIPLE TIE AT UPLANDS. The Uplands club's spring handicap tournament ended Sunday in a triple tie with Martin Cave, D. Smith and Dr. Gill all finishing with net 66.

Low gross was taken by Claude Heggie, the club's new vice-captain.

Other winners were R. Moss, A. G. Wolkins, R. Morrison and Gordon Pelham.

PRYKE TAKES ON CLASSES. The Gorge Vale club and its popular professional, Joe Pryke, are taking practical steps to introduce the game to Victoria's youngsters.

Classes of up to 10 are being taken out to the Gorge Vale club from various high schools and junior-high schools in the district for rudimentary instruction by Pryke.

First school to take advantage of the offer was Mount View, and this week it is the turn of the S. J. Willis Junior High.

"We hope by these classes to interest one or two boys and girls in the game," said Leo Derman, secretary of Gorge Vale.

The Gorge Vale club, like all the others in the district, is making a special welcome for young golfers this year.

JOE WRECKS COLWOOD PAR. Joe Evans, six handicapper from the Gorge Vale club, played one of his best rounds at Colwood Sunday when he shot a two-under-par 68.

Joe was out in 36 and home in 32. The back nine consisted of six pars and three birdies in this sequence: 434-343-434.

It brought his handicap down to four!

MIXED FOURSOMES AT VICTORIA. Another of the Victoria club's popular Saturday evening parties will be held Saturday, with more than 140 listed for attendance.

The events commence in the afternoon with a two-ball mixed foursome competition and a putting competition, followed by a cocktail party, dinner, bridge and bingo games and dancing.

Vikings Deadlock Hoop Final

WINNIPEG — Victoria College Vikings squared the best-of-five Western Canada junior men's basketball final at one game apiece last night with a 68-61 victory over Winnipeg Imperials.

Vikings, who lost the opener, 71-64, Monday night, turned in a better-balanced performance in gaining their win last night, and the scoring was evenly distributed. Art Chiko, Waldo Skillings and Bob Tomlinson each scored 14 points, while Tom English accounted for 12.

The College squad, which has been plagued by too many fouls in previous games during their march eastward, stayed fairly free of them last night, although the team's checking was extremely close. Vikings drew 10 fouls, compared to 21 for the Imperials.

Ed Melnyk was again top scorer for the Imperials with 21 points. Ken Hartas, the other half of Winnipeg one-two punch, contributed 16.

Vikings came out of the first half with a two-point lead, 31-29, and never relinquished it, although the Imperials threatened several times.

Imperials almost drew even with less than two minutes to go, with the score at 63-61, but a long pass from Melnyk to Hartas was intercepted by English. Hartas hit English hard and the Islander was given two free throws. He made both good to end the Winnipeg threat.

The Viking captain made victory certain with a field goal seconds later, and Chiko added a free throw just before the gun.

Last night's win may prove a costly one for Vikings. English twisted his ankle in the collision with Hartas, left the floor, but returned to help stem the final Imperial rally. It was expected that he would be ready for tonight's third game.

Scorers follow:

Victoria — Tomlinson 14, Chiko 14, English 12, Kowalyk 8, Skillings 14, McCulloch 6, Brousseau, Flynn, Lore. Total—68.

Winnipeg—Melnyk 21, Hartas 16, Sedun 8, Lockshin 12, McKenzie 2, Muth, Melonbardis 2, Block, Osochuk. Total—61.

Royals Only Three Behind After Beating Amerks, 3-2

New Westminster Royals moved to within three points of first place in the western division of the Western Hockey League last night, holding off a desperate rally by Seattle Americans to edge them, 3-2, before 2,853 fans at New Westminster.

Each team has three games left to play, including a crucial return match at Seattle tonight. The Americans can clinch the title with a win.

In last night's other game, Gordie Redahl scored at 1.43 of an overtime period to give Winnipeg Warriors a 4-3 win over Edmonton Flyers at Winnipeg.

Americans and Royals played through a scoreless first period, but New Westminster struck for three unanswered goals in the second and held on in the third despite two goals and tremendous pressure by the Americans.

Referee Scotty Morrison handed out 24 minutes in penalties, including a misconduct and game misconduct to Seattle's Eddie Dorohoy for uncomplimentary remarks in the third period.

At Winnipeg, Cec Hoekstra sent the Warriors into overtime with 59 seconds left in the third period, scoring while Edmonton was shorthanded.

Flyers had two players injured in the game. Goalie Dennis Riggin caught a puck in the face during the second period, and the game was delayed 15 minutes while the gash was closed with three stitches. Bob McFarland was the other casualty, crashing headlong into the boards in the third period after scoring Edmonton's third goal.

Shrine Night Friday

Victoria Cougars' last home game of the season, against New Westminster Royals Friday night at Memorial Arena, has been designated as "Shrine Night," and the Shriners have provided some special entertainment for fans.

Victoria Shrine Band will be in attendance, along with several clowns and Myta, the performing chimpanzee who caused so much commotion in Monday night's game against Vancouver Canucks. The talented chimp, owned by Capt. L. J. Ody of Penticton, will appear on skates and do a show between the first and second periods.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem Patterson, well-known Victoria figure-skaters, will perform between the second and third periods.

Game time is 8.30.

Pin boys in the neighborhood scattered Tuesday night when "Myta," the bowling chimp, went into action on the alleys. Myta took over as "spare" on Butler Brothers team in the city five-pin league at Capital City Bowladrome, and took out the two and three pin with one hefty swing. Myta's first bowling lesson was sponsored by Al Nailthorpe, manager of the alleys, who is a friend of Capt. A. J. Ody of Penticton, the chimp's owner. Myta and Capt. Ody, who will be here until next week, will visit St. Joseph's Hospital today and Royal Jubilee tomorrow.

Home Runs Feature Action; Yanks, Pirates Keep Rolling

Dick Stuart, colorful and self-assured rookie outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, slammed a pair of home runs yesterday as the Pirates continued to set a fast pace in spring exhibition baseball action by trampling the Chicago White Sox, 9-3.

Stuart, who led organized baseball in home runs last season by clouting 66 for Lincoln of the Western League, smashed his fourth and fifth homers of spring training yesterday and both were 400-foot blasts. He struck out the other three trips to the plate and has fanned eight times in the four games he has played.

It was the Pirates' eighth victory in 11 starts, making them the leading team in the grapefruit circuit.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

New York Yankees picked up their fourth straight win and seventh in 11 games by edging Milwaukee Braves, 6-5, on the strength of Gil McDougald's two-run double in the ninth inning.

Mickey Mantle smashed his fourth homer for the winners and veteran Tommy Byrne pitched three perfect innings in relief after starter Bob Turley had given up 11 hits and six Milwaukee runs.

In other action, Philadelphia reserve catcher Joe Lonnett opened the 11th inning with a home run as the Phils handed Detroit a 6-5 setback, the Tigers' eighth in 10 games. Johnny Groth smashed a homer in the 10th inning to give Kansas City at 6-5 win over Brooklyn, and Neil Chrisley's two-run pinch homer with one out in the ninth enabled Washington to edge Cincinnati, 6-4.

Speaking Briefly

Redlegs Offer for Newk Termed Silly by Brooks

The vice-president of the Brooklyn Dodgers has rejected Cincinnati's offer of seven players for 27-game winner Don Newcombe.

E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi described the offer as "silly." He did not disclose the players who were offered by general manager Gabe Paul of the Redlegs but indicated he never took it seriously.

Paul said he believed the Dodgers were considering it because they hadn't said yes and hadn't said no. Paul, who offered $300,000 for Newcombe last October, told reporters the Redlegs "would accept all responsibility for the condition of Don's arm."

Bavasi's rejection of the deal indicated the Dodgers are sure the big pitcher will not suffer a recurrence of the arm trouble that plagued him in the world series.

It was also indicated the Dodgers are satisfied with the recovery of catcher Roy Campanella's injured hand. It was regarded as certain the Redlegs included catcher Smokey Burgess in their offer in the belief the Dodgers wanted a capable receiver to back up Campanella.

Confident Birdie Claims Best Mound Depth

By LEO H. PETERSEN

TAMPA, Fla. (UP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs have the power to win the National League pennant. But most baseball followers don't think they have enough pitching.

However, Birdie Tebbetts, in his fourth season as manager of the Redlegs, doesn't agree with them. He insists he has "the best pitching depth in the league."

"We have seven or eight pitchers who can start and relieve," Tebbetts claims. "We may not have the standout starters some other teams have, but they can't come up to us in over-all depth. And there isn't a better relief pitcher than (Hersh) Freeman."

While Tebbetts is impressed with Cincinnati's power—the club tied the all-time major league club home run record last season when it clouted 221—he said he would be "satisfied with less homers and more singles and doubles."

"The long ball is fine, but it's even better when it comes with men on bases," he explained. "To many of our homers last year came with the bases empty. That's why I'd settle for fewer homers and more singles and doubles."

Getting back to pitching, Tebbetts declared, "that's what carried us to third place, only two games behind the winning Dodgers, last season and it figures to be better this year."

He conceded that perhaps Brooks Lawrence, who won 19 games in 1956, "might not win that many again," but added that Joe Nuxhall, who won only 13 last year "should do much better."

Birdie expects help from Warren Hacker and Russ Meyer, both of whom were obtained from the Cubs. Hacker won only three games for Chicago while losing 13, but according to Tebbetts "there isn't any reason why he shouldn't win 12 games for us."

Tebbetts also contends that holdovers Art Fowler (11-11), Johnny Klippstein (13-11), Hal Jeffcoat (8-2) and Tom Acker (4-3) should improve their last year's records.

The outfield is all set with Frank Robinson, the National League rookie of the year in 1956, in left, Gus Bell in centre and Wally Post in right. Although Post batted only .249 last year, he hit 36 homers. Robinson hit 38 and Bell 29.

The Redlegs have the best double play combination in the league in Roy McMillan at short and Johnny Temple at second. Big Ted Kluszewski is set at first base and under present plans, Tebbetts will platoon third base among Don Hoak, Alex Grammas and Bridges.

Ed Bailey, probably the most improved player in the league last year when he batted .300 and hit 28 homers, will be the No. 1 catcher with Smoky Burgess, also a long ball hitter, behind him. Tebbetts calls it the best catching staff in the league.

NHL Hits Final Week; Three Issues in Doubt

Although Detroit Red Wings have clinched the National Hockey League championship, three important matters remain to be settled in this final week of the regular schedule. Montreal Canadiens, dethroned champions, figure in all three.

Canadiens and Boston Bruins are deadlocked for second place; Hall of Detroit and Jacques Plante of Montreal are battling for the goal-tending honors.

Wings grabbed the title with an unblemished record last week, three wins in three starts. Canadiens had a win, a tie and a loss and bowed out of contention. They are in a tie for the runner-up spot with Bruins who put together two wins and a tie.

GLEN HALL
. . . holds slim lead

EASIER FOR HABS

Bruins and Canadiens each have two games left. Bruins meet Detroit and the fourth place New York Rangers. Canadiens meet the leaders, Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks.

Howe headed for his fifth point title holds a two point edge over Lindsay and a three point lead over Beliveau, the defending champion who appears back in stride after a late-season slump. Beliveau picked up five points in games last week while Howe was held to a goal and an assist.

Hall took a sight lead in the race with an average of 2.25 and a 10 lead over the Montreal Canadiens. Plante has the best individual record with a 2.01 game average.

Fraser Seeks Third Legion Running Title

Ian Fraser of Victoria High School will be seeking to become the first three-time winner of the Britannia Branch Trophy Friday afternoon when he makes his second defence in the annual Canadian Legion five-mile cross-country race.

Fraser, who has capped a brilliant three-year high school career with an undefeated record this season, won the race for the first time as a junior in 1955, and retained it as a senior last year. No other runner has ever won the trophy more than once.

The race will start with one lap around the quarter-mile Oval track of Victoria High, wind through the city and finish with another lap on the track. Starting time is 2:45.

OXFORD XV WINS

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Oxford University beat Trinity College, Dublin, 11-9 in a Rugby Union match here Monday.

Canadian Shuttle Meet Set for City Next Year

Victoria has been awarded the 1958 Canadian Open badminton championships, and city officials are already putting together plans to make the tournament the biggest in the history of the event.

Jim Wells, president of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, attended a meeting of the B.C. Badminton Association Monday night in Vancouver, where it was unanimously decided to stage the championships in Victoria as part of the B.C. centennial celebrations.

"They didn't even put it to a vote," the jubilant Wells reported last night. "They just made a motion and passed it through."

"All the clubs on the lower Island will get together to form a committee to really put this thing over. We'll hold it in the late winter or early spring, and it should attract the best players in the world."

FIRST HERE

It will be the first time that Victoria has held the tournament.

Certain renovations are scheduled to be made at the Amphion Street courts to prepare for the influx of players, but all will be ready when the opening date rolls around.

Victoria was also given another top tournament at the meeting Monday night.

The Canadian Junior championships will be held here April 24-26. Usually a closed event, the junior tournament has been changed to an open competition this year so that top-flight American jumors can participate.

$535,000 Referendum April 13

Sooke to Vote on School Plans

A $533,000 referendum for Sooke school construction will be put before ratepayers in School District 62 April 13.

Only one new school will be built under the plans. It will be an elementary school of three rooms and covered play area at the Metchosin and Lagoon Road intersection.

Additions are planned for eight other schools in the district.

Additions to Belmont High School call for two classrooms, a sewing room, science room, library, cooking room and extension of the existing heating unit.

Colwood will get a covered play area and central heating; Happy Valley, one classroom and central heating; Langford, two classrooms, activity room and covered play area; Jordan River, covered play area; Metchosin, covered play area and nurses' room; Port Renfrew, one classroom and covered play area; Sooke, two classrooms, activity room, administration unit, covered play area.

A new site and new building to replace the present school board office on Jacklin Road is also included in the referendum.

Provision is also made for acquisition of sites for future schools in the Sooke and Langford areas.

Polling places will be in the district schools at Colwood, Happy Valley, Langford, Metchosin, Otter Point, Jordan River, Port Renfrew, Sooke, East Sooke and at the Shirley Community Hall.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Public meetings to discuss the referendum will be held at Belmont High School April 5 at 8 p.m. and at Mines Landing High School April 8 at 8 p.m.

'Nanaimo Lacks Tourist Lures'

NANAIMO — Mayor Pete Maffeo told the local Council of Women here Monday that "no amount of advertising or other 'tubthumping' would hold tourists in Nanaimo at the moment."

He said his recent suggestion for the development of fish and game resources in the area had apparently not roused any reaction among members of the Chamber of Commerce. He then suggested that steps be taken to restock Nanaimo's 32 lakes and streams, and to establish better parks in the locality.

"People won't stay because we have nothing to offer them," claimed the mayor.

NANAIMO — A bolting horse combined with a faulty saddle and inadequate bridle bit caused the death of Walter Cooper of Nanoose Bay during a friendly horse race at Pleasant Valley March 10, a coroner's jury said Monday.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death with no blame.

* * *

PORT ALBERNI — Sawdust as fuel will be a thing of the past as of May 1, according to information furnished by MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

By-products of the sawmills will be required in the company's expanding pulp and paper industry.

Real Estate

'Cloak Dagger' Doomed

NANAIMO — "The days of rugged individualism in the real estate business are numbered and the cloak and dagger atmosphere is on its way out," said Herb Fullerton, regional vice-president of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards. He was speaking to members of Nanaimo Real Estate Board Monday.

He predicted a good future for the new multiple listing system in central Vancouver Island. He said the public would benefit by a much speedier system of selling property and have a larger selection to choose from.

Oil Stocks Boosted By Husky

TORONTO (CP)—Fresh buying appeared among refining oil & pipelines and western oils late in the session Tuesday to give the stock market a mixed to slightly higher tone at the close.

International Pete featured industrials climbing 2¼ points to 40⅝. Trans Mountain Pipe Line gained two points at 137½. Imperial Oil was up ¼ to 119 and BA Oil ¼ to 47. McColl-Frontenac however lost ¾ at 66.

Uranium were set down by profit-taking but moved up from the lows in the busing space.

Western oils, which led the best index gain yesterday at the close Calgary and Edmonton add 1 1-4 points at 27 while Canadian Husky gained 1½ at 19½. Del Rio was ahead 2c cents to $3.40 and Central Leduc 10 cents to $7.85. New Superior lost 17 cents at $1.98.

El Paso Advances

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks advanced on the lightest volume since last October.

Prices were at their best near closing time with demand increasing moderately.

Kennecott ran up several points on a favorable earnings report. Other coppers as a group and steel and Canadian issues gained steadily in the session.

The motors, being held down by Ford, lagged. Utilities eased off. Issues were irregular and without feature.

Du Pont was a strong spot in a limited number of issues. Advances were marked with United Aircraft, a point and Boeing almost three a point.

El Paso Natural Gas issues were active and up 1 to more than a point. Its B stock made a new high, and rights on the new preferred sold at 30 cents.

Fort St. John Soars

VANCOUVER—Fort St. John with a jumped 50 cents to a new high of $6.40 gave the stock market a boost on another quiet day of trading. Vantor at 50 cents was higher.

Pacific Nickel advanced 1 cent to 51 cents. Quality changed hands in small quantities.

Bill Forest Products and Industries among industrials with a 25 cents rise to $5.00 and McMillan and Bloedel and Powell River were both down fractional.

Pipelines Improve

MONTREAL (CP)—Industrials turned back to lower levels in the last hour of trading Tuesday. Base Metals and Western Oils were the only groups showing gains at the close.

Pipelines were the strongest group. Trans Mountain was up 1 at 137½ and Inter-Pipeline gained 1 to 40. Mainland Pete advanced 1 to 5 cents and Canadian Husky 1½ at 19½. Imperial Oil was ahead ¼ at 119 and Calgary and Edmonton 1 1-4 points at 27 while Canadian Husky gained 1½ at 19½. Del Rio was ahead 2c cents to $3.40 and Central Leduc 10 cents to $7.85. New Superior lost 17 cents at $1.98.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade in futures in the Canadian wheat market was light and prices showed little change.

Oats were the most active of the grains. Trade was light and prices showed little change.

Barley futures were quiet and prices showed little change.

Flaxseed futures were quiet and prices showed little change.

Cash grain close

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures prices fell a little during the session in light trading. Trade set in again and prices moved downward.

A persistent selling movement of prices put an end to most of the early rallies. There was buying in most parts of the grain market during the last hour of trading, however, which pushed prices up from the lows of the day.

Wheat was under heavy selling pressure from the start of the session. Prices moved lower in the face of reports that there was buying in most parts of the grain market during the last hour of trading, however, which pushed prices up from the lows of the day.

Powell River Net Down

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Although its net profit is down by $1,201,000 from 1955, the 1956 annual report of Powell River Company Ltd. is a strong position to bring to the attention of all the company's newsprint production in 1957.

The net profit was $10,906,108, $2.60 a share, compared with $12,107,018, $2.90 a share in the previous year.

Most of the drop in net profit is attributed to [illegible]

Gargrave Busy With Aristotle

BY PETER BRUTON

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY . . . Tuesday was a dull day in the legislature by all accounts.

But at least one MLA worked hard as the speeches droned on. Tony Gargrave (CCF, Mackenzie) who is a student at Victoria College, caught up on his homework by writing an essay comparing the works of Aristotle and Plato.

Mr. Gargrave attends school in the morning. He attends the legislature in the afternoon and providing there is no night sitting, hopes up on his studies at night.

MY FRIEND, WHAT'S HIS NAME. With a Social Credit Mr. A in the chair of the House it sometimes becomes a little difficult to remember just who they mean. Premier Bennett yesterday proved he, too, can be bewildered.

Speaking of the Peace River newspaper man, praised the government for its extension of the PGE into the Peace River. The premier in his eagerness to preserve the peace of mind forgot the Hon. Gordon Gargrave, the man in the Hon. chair representing Peace River South.

Only trouble, Mr. Carnell represents Peace River South.

LONG TIME NO SEE: For the second time in his life, Dr. P. M. Pearson, opposing member of Fred Cantelon, MLA for Victoria, read the prayer at the opening of proceedings.

The last time was nearly 40 years ago, in 1918, when the premier was H. C. Brewster and the Speaker John Keen.

Rhubarb's Appearance A Sure Sign of Spring

At periodic intervals I go through an ever-lattering file marked readers letters to make [illegible] has been unswerved [illegible] another. Out of it was I came across to my shame a unanswered one dated away back on Feb. 1. There is neither name nor address on this letter it's merely signed a faithful reader. Now listen gals please. More than once I have asked you to cooperate by giving our name and address and if possible your telephone number although I never use more than initials in the column of ours as you know.

Here's the point. This anony mous reader says in part do you think you could publish a good pie recipe for making 8 to 10 pies? But such a request leaves me completely in the dark as I've no idea what kind of pie she wants or whether she means double or sugar crust pies. Do you see what I mean? Now if I knew who she was I would write or phone her and ask her to be a little more explicit. As it is I can only play a long shot and hope the following information will help. In

Half-Size Gem Printed Pattern

9111 SIZES 14½—24½

by Marian Martin

Lucky half-sizers! [illegible] pattern is designed for your figure to make you taller smaller slimmer. Notice the extra illusion of length in the tucked bodice, easy gracefully stepped lines, three lovely styles for any season.

Printed Pattern 9111: Half sizes 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½, 24½. Size 16½ takes 4¼ yards [illegible].

Picture directions on each pattern part. Easier, faster, more exact.

[illegible] in coins (stamps not accepted) for this pattern. Please print plainly size, name, address, style number.

Send your order to Marian Martin Pattern Department, The Daily Colonist, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ont.

incidentally, it might be of use to many of you when catering for church suppers and the like.

LARGE QUANTITY PASTRY

This is sufficient for eight double crust pies of about eight inches in diameter. 1½ pounds flour, 1 pound shortening, 1½ cups ice cold water, 1 tablespoon salt.

Sift the flour before measuring. Cut in the shortening with two large knives into quite fine particles. Combine the water and salt and add slowly as you may not need that much water. Divide dough into 16 portions. Roll each portion to about [illegible] thickness and use as desired. By the way for the best results this kind of pastry should be used the day that is made.

As I said, having no idea what kind of filling the reader wants I don't know what to do about it on this. The situation reminds me of that goofy question "what happened to the girl in cotton stockings?" The answer is nothing. So until our unknown pal writes again we'll have to skip the pie filling but since we're on to large quantity cooking how about this next suggestion. . . .

PIE MERINGUE

This also is sufficient for eight pies. 16 egg whites, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch. Whip egg whites and salt till just past the frothy stage. If you're using an electric beater this takes about 1½ minutes on third speed. While beating add gradually the sugar which has been mixed with the cornstarch. Beat until stiff enough to hold peaks but don't let it get dry. Spread on the pies and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 15 minutes. When making in large quantities like this I strongly advise you to beg, borrow or steal an automatic beater if you haven't got one. My arm aches at the very thought of doing it by hand.

Don't think your requests for Puff Pastry have been forgotten. It's too long and too important a story to squeeze it into our remaining space this morning so will you watch for it next week?

* * *

A sure sign of spring is the rhubarb now making its first appearance in the stores. Don't ask me why but it is classed as a fruit in vegetable. The combination of the two types of perennial [illegible] not [illegible] make less, could you? All I do know is that the tender pink stalks are relished when simply stewed and served as is. Somehow they give your mouth a fresh clean feeling. Here are some rhubarb recipes.

STEWED RHUBARB

Wipe the baby stalks with gentle stroke using a clean damp cloth. Cut into inch-long pieces without peeling of course.

The tender young skins will toughen soon enough. Cover with boiling water, let stand five minutes and drain well. Then cook with a pinch of salt in top of a closely covered double boiler with no additional water. Remove from heat and add sugar to taste, to taste and let stand till sugar is dissolved. Chill well before serving. This method takes about [illegible] minutes and the rhubarb stays whole. Personally I don't like the method very much so don't know why I suggested it. Here's a quicker way. Put the prepared rhubarb into a saucepan add a very little water and stew gently till soft. Sweeten to taste preferably with honey.

TRICK OF THE DAY

To make a quick and satisfying potato cream I can condensed tomato soup and I can condensed cream of green pea soup. Stir in two soup cans of milk. Heat slowly, stirring often. If liked put a small dab of whipped cream on each serving.

Mardi Gras Raises $942

Salarium Junior League realized a net sum of $942 from the Mardi Gras ball in the Empress Ballroom Feb. 22 it was announced yesterday.

League spokesman said the amount was slightly less than proceeds from the 1956 ball which the club repeated but added that "we feel it has been a tremendous success for a first-time event and we expect to make the ball again next year."

Spring Suits Flattering For the Smaller Figure

[illegible] use of wool in that [illegible]

The suit selected in your own size naturally requires fewer alterations. Changes should be avoided not only because they are costly, but because sometimes merely shortening sleeve lengths and hemlines leaves body of the garment out of proportion for you. When a suit is cut for the petite many things are considered.

[illegible]

Suits for the petite make use of fabric for figure flattery, too. Smooth grey flannel, firm lightweight wool crepe in navy blue and carefully selected patterns are some of those that appear in fresh designs for 1957. Checks are subtle, a tiny check over check pattern uses two tones of blue or red on white. Tweeds appear in the smaller designs that the petite figure finds easier to wear.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

Sunday night TViewing usually the best of the week will be even better next season.

NBC has announced that Chevrolet will spend between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 for the 9-10 period Sundays for 52 weeks after Alcoa and Goodyear cancel at the end of this season. Dinah Shore will do 20 of the shows, Ginger Rogers and Bob Hope will do six each and the others are undecided.

With Milton Berle expected to go in at 7:30 p.m. Sundays and Steve Allen staying at 8 p.m. NBC has a schedule that could wreck Ed Sullivan and friends on CBS. Last week's ratings show Sullivan still ahead of Allen 28-24. Hope far ahead of the competition, 38 to 17, and Charles Van Doren's last 21 appearance beating Lucy, 38-26.

Incidentally Jack Barry and Dan Enright, owners of 21, have a deal with their sponsor wherein they pay all prize money over $10,000 a week. Van Doren was on for 14 weeks and won $129,000, or $9,214 a week.

"How wonderful! They've named her Emmy!"

* * *

The excellent "Hemo the Magnificent" will be repeated tonight and Masquerade Party returns after a long layoff. Other good shows are the Golden Gloves both Disneyland, Edward Mulhare on Kraft Theatre, "The Man Between" and "House on 92nd Street."

* * *

MONDAY REVIEW: This column's assistant critic took over to review the debut of Wells Fargo. It's an amusing and action-packed western description as "a lot of good fun" even though the cameraman took local on shots with obvious jet trails in the sky.

* * *

TV BITS: Speaking of Bob Hope, what other comics have been smash hits on TV for five years or more? Answer tomorrow . . . George Gobel, the only comic to win a regular show in the last four years, will definitely share billing next season with Eddie Fisher in an hour long variety show at 8 p.m. Tuesdays . . . CBC has okayed TV stations at Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon but rejected a radio station at Kitimat . . . Bing Crosby, cutting down his work, has stopped making TV films . . . Jack Benny Productions will direct a half hour "live" series starring Gisele McKenzie.

Department of disillusion . . . That cigaret company hires a man to imitate the voices of sport starts Pancho Gonzales, Gary Middlecoff and Don Carter on those commercials. Don't know why.

Today's Best

7:00—An Almanac guest is John Smylie, 1917 Hampshire, who builds models of Indian villages (channel 2); Charles Bickford as "The Man Who Couldn't Wait" on 20th Century-Fox Hour (channels 11 and 12).

Compensation

Board Attacked From All Sides

Workmen's Compensation Board came under fire from all sides of the legislature again Monday as members hit out at rulings which had deprived workmen of compensation.

"I think we need a new board," said George Gregory (Lib., Victoria) who hit out at the ruling which had denied compensation to silicosis victim Jack Zucco.

LEGISLATURE PICKETED

Mrs. Zucco unsuccessfully picketed the legislature in an effort to get compensation last year.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, under whose department the board operates, said a board of referees had been established and all contentious silicosis rulings would be referred to it, including that of Mr. Zucco.

Former lands and forests minister Robert E. Sommers also attacked the board and said the minister "must prevail upon the chairman (J. E. Eades) to be more human."

FUTURE TROUBLE

"Until the definition of accident is changed all we will get (from the board) in future is trouble," he stated.

CCF members and Cyril Shelford (SC, Omineca) also criticized the handling of some cases.

Labor Minister Wicks however said these "attacks" on the board were not a new state of affairs and said that the same things being said yesterday were being said in 1917.

LESS THAN B.C.

Last year in B.C., he said, there had been some 9,500 claims from the labor force covered by the board of some 392,000 workers. In the U.S. where there were 2,400,000 workers operating under the department of labor there had been only 181,000 claims, less than 5,000 more than the B.C. total.

Mr. Wicks said there was only about a 1½ per cent margin of error made in board decisions which is not inconsistent with human judgment."

Automatic Weld X-Rayed

First automatic electric welding process used in pipeline double jointing is speeding construction on Trans-Canada Pipe Line's gas line from Alberta to Eastern Canada. New process eliminates half the manual welding, and has been carried on in 40 degrees below zero. Welds have stood up under examinations including X-ray. Here, the X-ray camera is taken from a double joint.

Buying a Car? 17 Pigs Down

BRISBANE, Australia (NANA)—A motor firm in the Brisbane Valley town of Toogoolowah is taking pigs and cattle as deposits on cars, trucks and tractors.

C. N. McCormack, manager of Toogoolowah Auto Sales, said his firm instituted the scheme about a year ago, and it has been a tremendous success. Only the other day, he said, a farmer came in with 17 pigs, which had been taken as the equivalent of a $450 deposit on a car. The firm allowed the farmer more for his cattle or pigs than he would get if he sent them to market.

"We fatten and sell them when the market rises," McCormack said.

Over CNR Branch

New Bridge Suggested

Works and fire committee will recommend to Saanich council that the CNR rebuild a bridge on Seymour Avenue between Saanich Road and Patricia Bay Highway crossing a branch line right-of-way.

Council approved a slow speed limit and five-ton load limit for the aging structure on advice of the railroad, which didn't make clear its future plans for the span.

Fire Chief Joseph Law told the committee the bridge route was most direct for calls to some sections of Saanich.

Councillors said they were unaware of the fire route when restrictions were imposed.

The works committee turned down Reeve Arthur Ash's recommendation that firemen be given a wage increase to bring them in line with other municipal employees other than police, even though only midway through a two-year contract.

The reeve contended the raise would show council's "good faith" in wage matters.

Coun. Joseph Casey said the move would be breaking a contract and "setting a dangerous precedent."

The raise mentioned by the reeve in January was about two per cent, but a re-examination of figures showed that an increase of at least three per cent would be necessary to level off municipal wage scales.

The committee also dickered with Royal Oak Women's Institute officials—council's "landlord" for the makeshift chambers in the Women's Institute Hall—for a renewed lease.

The committee agreed to a rent increase from $70 a month to $120, and relinquishing one day a week previously reserved for council use.

Peterson Tells Socreds:

B.C. Education Standard Termed Canada's Highest

Standard of education in British Columbia is the highest in Canada, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Monday.

He was speaking at the monthly meeting of the Victoria Social Credit Constituency Association.

Mr. Peterson said an average of 11,000 new pupils had entered B.C. schools each year over the past five years.

A big factor in the standard of education in B.C. was the fact that 50 per cent of students entering high schools here completed Grade 12. The percentage in the rest of Canada was only 15, he said.

This year's education budget of $18,000,000 indicated the importance the government attached to education, he said.

Waldo Skillings, federal Social Credit candidate in Victoria, attacked the federal government for saying it would be senseless to vote for any party other than the Liberal party in the coming federal election.

"We live in a democracy and it is our right to vote as we please," he said. "Anyone who votes Liberal should take $5 and go get their head read as the federal government is not giving a fair break to British Columbians and it is only by our ballots that we can show the easterners that we are really alive in B.C."

Mr. Skillings criticized the inequitable freight rates whereby eastern manufacturers can send their goods to B.C. cheaper than B.C. manufacturers can send their goods east.

In addition, Vancouver Island residents were penalized further by having to pay additional freight charges from the mainland, he said.

C. A. WINKLER

Chairman of chemistry department of McGill University, Dr. C. A. Winkler will speak at a meeting of the Vancouver Island branch of Chemical Institute of Canada at 8 p.m. Friday at 880 Superior. Subject of his address will be the behavior and nature of "Active Nitrogen".

High Court Burden To Be Eased

Measures designed to lighten the load on the B.C. Supreme Court were contained in the new amendment to the County Court Act given first reading Monday in the legislature.

County courts will now have jurisdiction to hear cases involving up to $3,000 instead of the present $1,000 and if on land value up to $7,500 instead of $2,500.

Cases involving more than these limits go before the Supreme Court.

Another point is that previously there could be no appeal on judgments of less than $500. This has been raised to $500.

Leadership Training Starts Soon

A leadership training course sponsored by the Community Welfare Council will be conducted at Spencerhouse March 29, April 5 and April 12.

The course covering common problems in leadership, will be under the direction of Mrs. F. Purcell of the YWCA, Glen Hamilton of Silver Threads Service and Robert Milks, executive commissioner of the Boy Scouts.

Registrations will be taken by Mr. Hamilton at Spencer House. The class will be limited to 24 persons and the meetings will be held at 8 on the three evenings.

Diving Engineer Finds Piers Slightly Eroded

City Engineer James C. Garnett donned a diving suit yesterday to see for himself if piers of the Johnson Street bridge were in good condition.

He saw, under 18 feet of water, a few areas of slight erosion, but nothing like the cavities discovered in the piers of Point Ellice bridge.

A professional diver of the firm that has completed underwater repairs to the Point Ellice piers will finish the Johnson Street inspection, Mr. Garnett said. But he doubted that immediate repairs would be recommended—"perhaps another inspection in about five years."

June 17 has been set as starting date for demolition of the present Point Ellice bridge and construction of the new one. The work is expected to take three months.

Big UN Issues Pre-Settled Editor Says

No nation likes to be defeated in the general assembly of the United Nations, therefore most of the big issues are thrashed out before reaching the assembly floor, Brian Tobin, associate editor of the Times, told the Kiwanis Club yesterday.

The United States is partisan, less sensitive on this point, he said. The U.S. feels that if defeated it will lose prestige and influence.

He predicted that in years to come the UN may disappear but if it does it can only be to make way for something even better.

Auditorium Contract Let

VANCOUVER (CP) — Commonwealth Construction Co., Ltd., yesterday was awarded a contract to build Vancouver's civic auditorium for $1,034,992.

Completion date of the building under the contract was set for Nov. 30, 1958.

Royal City Mayor Seeks Hospital Aid

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Mayor Fred Jackson says he will seek financial assistance from surrounding municipalities for a hospital for chronics here.

Royal Columbian Hospital here takes care of more cases from "outside" areas than any other hospital, he said.

"I am going to press for creation by the provincial government of a hospital district which would allow surrounding areas to contribute to the upkeep of Royal Columbian."

Gordon Says CNR Slices Budget

OTTAWA (CP) — The CNR has severely restricted its 1957 power spending because of its possible effect on inflation, company president Donald Gordon said Tuesday.

Mr. Gordon told the Commons railway committee the management sliced $120,000,000 from amounts which officials recommended for spending this year.

Eventual amount to be disbursed in 1957 in the capital budget is $268,707,000. This is up from $233,000,000 last year, but much of it consists of commitments made previously.

BONDS EXPECTED SOON

A new issue of B.C. Telephone bonds to which president Vernon T. Farrell referred at the annual meeting in Vancouver last week is expected to be sold largely to institutions.

Mr. Farrell said the issue would be for about $25,000,000 needed to pay for the company's big expansion program. It is expected to bear a 5 per cent coupon and will be offered at a discount.

Man Gets Jail For Taking Car

A three-month jail sentence for taking a car without consent of the owner was handed out to Cyril Morgan no fixed address, in city police court yesterday.

Morgan was arrested after a car belonging to William O. Adams, Nanaimo, was moved from its parking place at the E &N station. It was found 125 feet away, and Morgan was seen in and around the vehicle.

This was Morgan's third conviction on similar offences.

Robert B. Anderson, 3226 Doncaster, on trial for careless driving, was remanded by Magistrate Henry C. Hall to March 22 at conclusion of yesterday's session.

Mr. Anderson was driving south on Cook at about 7 p.m. Jan. 27 when he heard a 'bang.' stopped his car, and found pedestrian George Ralph English, 81, of 435 Vancouver, lying on the road.

Mr. English suffered bruises to the legs and shock, but no broken bones. On the stand, he could remember nothing of the accident.

Royal Visit Talks Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Prospects of a Canadian visit by Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will be discussed by Prime Minister St. Laurent and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain at their Bermuda conference March 25 and 26.

Mr. St. Laurent gave this information to the Commons Tuesday as he outlined the agenda for his meeting with the British prime minister. He indicated the conference will deal mainly with Anglo-Canadian trade.

NO COMMENT

He informed Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) that he could not comment on "speculative" press reports that the Queen may visit Canada this autumn. It would be improper to make any statement until formal plans for any visit had been concluded.

Later, however, in replying to questions by Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) concerning the Bermuda conference, Mr. St. Laurent said "we will no doubt take the opportunity of trying to ascertain just what the prospects are" of a royal visit.

1951 TOUR

The Queen, who toured Canada in 1951 as Princess Elizabeth, has been invited to open the St. Lawrence Seaway in 1959. Her husband, the duke of Edinburgh, toured Canada in 1954.

There were indications here that if the Queen does come to Canada this year it would be only for a brief visit confined mainly to the capital. There is a possibility she would open a fall session of Parliament.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (Reuters)—The Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes fluttered from many houses here Tuesday on the eve of the arrival of Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower.

A 21-gun salute was to greet Eisenhower as he steps ashore today for the three-day conference.

Lt.-Gen. Sir John Woodall, the governor and commander-in-chief of Bermuda, headed a group of government officials and civic leaders who took part in a rehearsal of the welcoming ceremony.

Macmillan will drive to Albuoys Point, in a corner of Hamilton Harbor, to greet the president on world affairs with the prime minister.

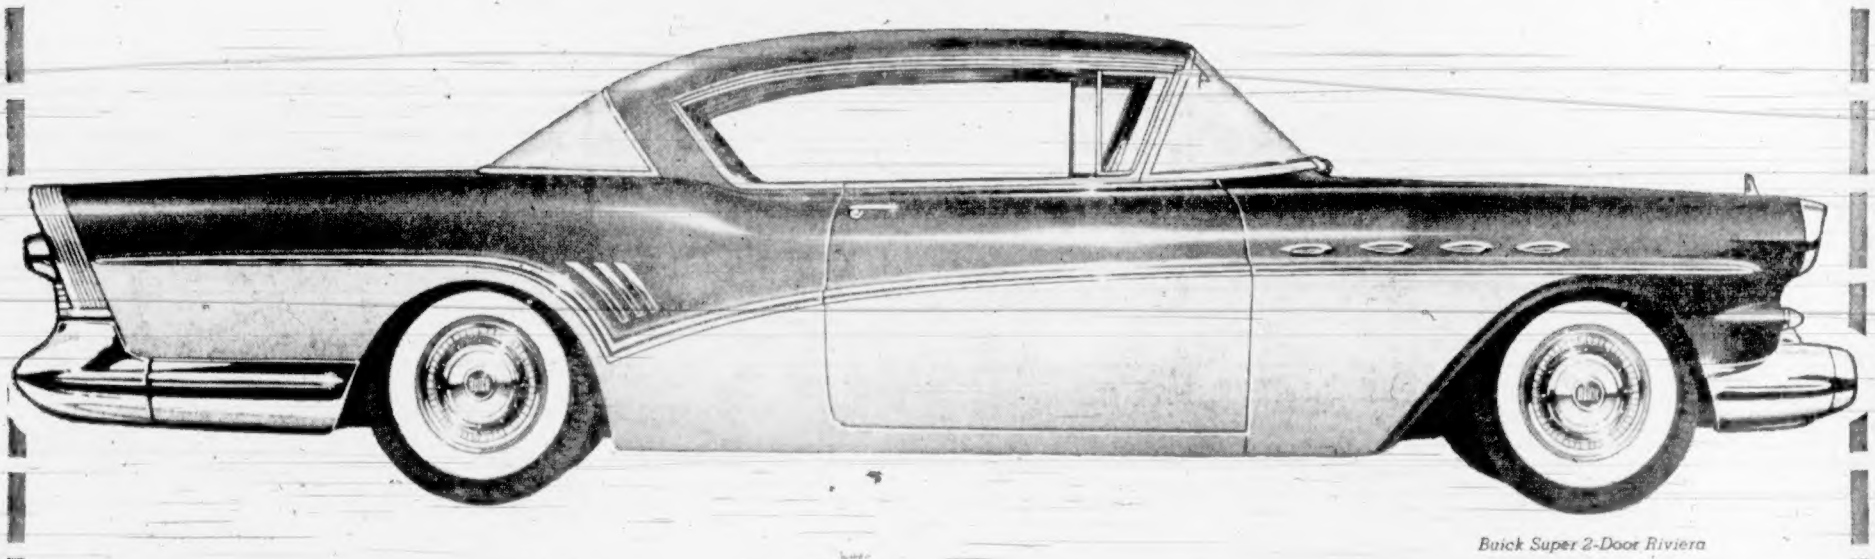
Here's where your money talks BIG



Buick Super 2-Door Riviera

YOUR nearest Buick dealer is the best man in town to get to know—right now! He's making it mighty easy for you to get everything you want in a fine car . . . in a new Buick, of course. It's all a matter of what you get for what you spend... and just look at what you do get in any Buick! That's when your excitement starts to rise—with your first look at these classically beautiful lines. And when you're behind the wheel—feeling the instant response of that new Variable Pitch Dynaflow*—your excitement mounts even higher.

It's a new kind of performance, sparked by brilliant obedience from a big 364-cubic-inch V8 engine. Then you brake to a gentle stop—or even a quick one—and you learn how Buick's levelized braking virtually ends the down-in-front dip you've had to live with up to now.

You go around curves and corners with the confidence of a cat on a carpet—like a train on tracks. That's Buick's combination of ball-joint suspension, a new lower centre of gravity and unique front-end geometry that gives you the easiest handling and surest cornering you've ever known.

You go on and on—getting happier and happier—and your money's talking bigger and bigger every mile.

Visit your Buick dealer and take the wheel of a '57 Buick. Do it today!

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.*
